Tigers start playoff journey, roll to area win

By DENNIS SILVA II
SPORTS EDITOR

No. 9 state-ranked Katy had to wait a week longer than most other teams to initiate its playoff journey. But once they did, the Tigers, per their ways, put everyone on notice that they will be no easy out.

After its bi-district game against Elkins on Dec. 11 was canceled due to COVID-19 cases in the Knights' program, Katy, which was awarded a bye for the first round, finally got back on the field on Friday, Dec. 18. It then dominated, thoroughly, as it eased its way to a breezy 60-7 win over Lamar in their Class 6A Division II area playoff game at Rhodes Stadium.

The Tigers (9-1) advanced to play No. 21 Shadow Creek (6-3), the 2019 Class 5A Division I state champion, in the regional semifinals on Saturday, Dec. 26, at 1 p.m. at Freedom Field in Alvin.

FORT BEND COUNTY

Commissioners approve more CARES Act grants

By R. HANS MILLER
NEWS EDITOR

Fort Bend County Commissioners approved a second round of grant funding for small businesses through CARES Act funds allocated to the county at the governing body's Dec. 8 meeting. The forgivable grants are available to Fort Bend businesses in amounts up to $25,000 depending on the company's annual sales reported for 2019.

"The case management team is aggressively pursuing the grantees for submission of their documentation because we have right at 1,700 that are eligible for a second grant," County Auditor Ed Sturdivant said during the meeting.

Sturdivant said at the time the Auditor's Office had only been able to help a little less than 10% of the original grantees receive a second grant. Grant funding is available for expenses incurred through the end of December, he said.

Fort Bend County Auditor Ed Sturdivant discusses the availability of funding for CARES Act grants to help businesses in Fort Bend County adversely impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic during the Fort Bend County Commissioners Court meeting held Dec. 8.

Initial funding was available in the amount of more than $47 million, though it was unclear how much funding remained available.

According to county documents, funding from the grants may be used to pay for personal protective equipment, reopening supplies, equipment and renovations, inventory, utilities, remote working expenses, leases, payroll to bring employees back to work and mortgage assistance.

Applicants' principal place of business must be in Fort Bend County and reported annual 2019 revenue must be at least $25,000 and no more than $5 million to be eligible. Additional requirements include having between one and 50 full time employees, the business must be for prof-

City adopts water fee, OKs development agreement

City of Fulshear, Texas

Business - A
City Council

December 15th, 2020 7:14 pm

AARON GROFF
MAYOR

Fulshear Mayor Aaron Groff explains that Fulshear is required under state legislation to accept an increase in water pumpage fees established by the North Fort Bend Regional Water Authority. Essentially, he said, for the first 5,000 gallons of water used by a resident, about $4 goes to the city while about $20 goes to the water authority.

By R. HANS MILLER
NEWS EDITOR

Fulshear City Council adopted a development agreement with DR Horton for about 1,300 acres to be developed into residential housing. They also adopted, as required by state law, an increase to the North Fort Bend Regional Water Authority fees that are passed through the city to residents through water bills at their Dec. 15 meeting.

"Unfortunately, while staff recommends (accepting the fee increase), I also know that we have no choice but to recommend (it) and we're going to continue to fight that - at least, that's my promise to you all - through legislation and conversations," Mayor Aaron Groff said.

Costly water

The NFBWA is a regional water authority created by the 79th Texas Legislature in May of 2005 with the purpose of reducing subsidence - the sinking of land due to water being pumped out from beneath it - and encourage water conservation practices as well as a move to surface water. The fees on residents' water bills will be set at $4.25 per 1,000 gallons of groundwater pumped or $4.60 per 1,000 gallons of surface water pumped per business or household. This is an increase from the prior year's rate of $3.95 per 1,000 gallons of groundwater and $4.30 per 1,000 gallons of surface water. The water authority pumpage fees apply to all Municipal Utility Districts and cities within the boundaries of the North Fort Bend Water Authority including the Cinco Ranch area and the city of Katy. Funds raised through the fees are required to be used for projects that educate the public on water conservation or convert the region from groundwater to surface water usage, according to the NFBWA website.

Council Member Debra Cates said she felt it was important that the city explain to residents that, while they have no choice but to accept the water authority's fee increase due to legislation, they are not necessarily in favor of the increase which is a continuation of the fees increasing annually for the past several years.

Council Member Joel Patterson said that, given his experience in geology and associated issues with subsidence, he would like the city to push to get its own individual membership on the Harris-Galveston Subsidence District which oversees the water authorities in the Greater Houston area.

Groff said he would continue to push for representation on that board and would work to ensure representation for the city at all levels associated with the fees, especially given what he felt was a lack of progress on

WALLER COUNTY

Commissioners move ahead with renovation

By R. HANS MILLER
NEWS EDITOR

Waller County commissioners approved next steps in the county's plans to revitalize county-operated buildings at their Dec. 16 meeting by approving and agreement with Sedalco Construction Services to and the purchase of a new heating system for the Waller County Courthouse.

"As you might have noticed, it's a little chilly in here," County Judge Trey Duhon said when opening discussions regarding replacing the heating and cooling system for the courthouse. "Because we have (no heat) in the courthouse at this time. The boiler has finally come to its final demise."

Waller County Construction Manager Danny Rothe said the boiler, which county officials said was about 70 years old, had broken to the point that it is no longer repairable. Replacement of the boiler system was approved through the BuyBoard group purchasing agreement which Waller County participates in. Collective purchasing platforms such as BuyBoard help small municipalities such as counties and cities negotiate better prices by operating collaboratively. Replacement of the system will cost about $56,000, Rothe said and will need to be installed by an outside vendor.

The Waller County Courthouse will see a great deal of activity in the near future as work crews replace its roughly 70-year-old boiler system which recently broke down beyond repair and assess the building for an internal redesign and remodel that will modernize the structure.

"(Maintenance staff) do a lot of plumbing and a lot of electrical and a lot of AC systems, but this is a boiler that's going to be about the size of (the tables in the courtroom)," Rothe said. "It has to be brought in. We've already cleared an area in the maintenance room upstairs on the fourth floor for it"

Air-Tech Brazos Valley out of College Station will perform the heating system replacement.

The old system will not be removed from the building at this time, Rothe said, but rather will wait until more is known about upcoming renovations to the county courthouse to be removed.

Commissioners approved the agreement with Sedalco for assessment of the county courthouse after county staff recommended the organization citing a good working relationship with the firm which also completed the county's new justice center on time and on budget, which commissioners noted is an uncommon occurrence. Sedalco was the top-recommended bid out of five the county received, Rothe said. Sedalco will work with BSW Architects on the design portion of the project.

"I appreciate the committee that got together and looked at those things that came up with the scoring (of the bids)," Duhon said. "I appreciate your time. I mean, just based on our experience in this with the justice center and working with those firms, I think that's great. I have no problems with those firms whatsoever."

An exact cost for the assessment, redesign and remodel of the building is not set as yet because final negotiations on the proposal are ongoing.

Katy turns out for Wreaths Across America

By R. HANS MILLER
NEWS EDITOR

Veterans and residents of the Katy area held memorial services at Magnolia Cemetery on Franz Road and the Antioch Community Cemetery despite the rain Saturday morning. The services, part of the American Legion's Wreaths Across America annual event, were designed to remember, honor and teach about those who have served the U.S. in the various military branches.

The Magnolia service included a keynote address by U.S. Army Major General (Retired) Darrell McDaniel and was attended by members of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars. Members of Katy City Council, Katy Mayor Bill Hastings, members of local Future Farmers of America chapters, first responders and Daughters of the American Revolution representatives also attended.

More than 475 wreaths were laid out at the Magnolia Cemetery after an opening ceremony that included playing the national anthem, a 21-gun salute and placement of wreaths honoring the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines, Coast Guard and Merchant Marines.

A second ceremony followed at the historically-Black Antioch Cemetery near Katy High School on Stockdick Road in downtown Katy. Members of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Antioch Baptist Church and the Military Order of the Purple Heart spoke at the Antioch ceremony.

Children were present at both locations and were accompanied by parents as they learned about the sacrifices made by American servicemen and women.

Grave markers for veterans at both cemeteries denoted veterans going back at least to World War I and membership in a variety of branches of the military.

U.S. Army Major General (Retired) Darrell McDaniel delivers the keynote address at Katy's Magnolia Cemetery for the Wreaths Across America event held Dec. 19. Dozens of area residents turned out to hear McDaniel speak and help lay nearly 500 wreaths on the graves of veterans.

Community members including Boy Scouts helped distribute wreaths to those that wanted to place them at Magnolia Cemetery.

Headstones of veterans were identified with U.S. flags placed there prior to the wreath-laying ceremony so that community members could assist in laying the wreaths.

An honor guard comprised of veterans from American Legion Post 164 and Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 9182 conducts a 21-gun salute. Each of the seven honor guard participants fired his rifle three times in a tradition known as the greatest honor awarded to Americans with the exception of a fifty-gun salute only utilized on the day of the funeral of a president, former president or president-elect.

Prior to the remainder of the wreaths being laid in honor of veterans, wreaths were set on stands honoring each of the branches of the U.S. military as well as those who are still considered missing in action or prisoners of war.

The graves of Jimmie Harris (Private, U.S. Army) and Levy Whiteing (Private First Class, U.S. Army) are adorned with wreaths at Antioch Cemetery after the wreath-laying ceremony held Dec. 19.

A veteran bugle player performs Taps at the Antioch Cemetery wreath-laying ceremony. During the playing of Taps, tradition dictates that military members and veterans should render a salute and civilians should remove any hats and place their hands over their hearts.

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test.

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Delton Faye Staelke was born to the late Charlie and Olga Herr Staelke on October 13, 1935 in Willow Springs, Texas. He spent most of his life in Katy, Texas, where he went to be with the Lord on December 16, 2020 after a long and wonderful life of 85 years.

Delton spent his childhood in Fayetteville, Texas, where he played basketball and baseball and graduated from Fayetteville High School in 1954. After graduation, he enlisted in the Army to serve his country before returning home to marry the love of his life, Alice Ann Kalmus, on October 3, 1959. They moved to Katy in 1976, where they enjoyed dancing, visiting the casinos, attending Katy High School football games, and spending time with family and friends. They were long-time members of St. Bartholomew Catholic Church in Katy, Texas.

He spent his career as a machinist. He and his oldest son, Michael, both worked for Burgess & Associates before starting their own company, D&M Machine Works, in 1987. Their business thrived for 13 years, and Delton happily retired in 2000. His favorite pastimes included playing poker and dominos, walking his dog, Bug, and spending time at his farm in Fayetteville talking to his cows.

He is preceded in death by his parents, Charlie & Olga Staelke, and his brother, Delphine Staelke.

Delton is survived by his younger sister, Jean Sladek, his beloved wife of 61 years, Alice Staelke (Kalmus); and their three children, son Michael Staelke and spouse Diana Staelke, son Ken Staelke, and daughter Jennifer Staelke. He leaves behind two grandchildren and their spouses, Logan and Paige Staelke, and Jessica and Eric Tanner, and one great-granddaughter, Tomi Jo.

Seismique museum set to open Dec. 26

By R. HANS MILLER
NEWS EDITOR

A new, 40,000-square-foot art museum is set to open at 2306 South Highway 6 in Katy this Dec. 26. The new museum includes more than 40 unique exhibits focused on displays of light, color, sound and natural elements.

"I am really looking forward to seeing the expressions on peoples' faces when they experience Seismique for the first time; I liken it to the equivalent of walking through a portal and into an alternative universe that is a feast for the senses," said Seismique creator Steve Kopelman.

Kopelman, who has a background in immersive experience and escape games, said the year has been very difficult worldwide and he hopes Seismique can serve as a bit of an escape for visitors who are exhausted from the pandemic and other issues this year has brought.

A press release from Seismique indicated that the new facility will have policies in place to ensure visitor safety such wearing masks, limiting capacity, offering hand sanitizing stations throughout the facility and staff frequently sanitizing displays and the facility overall. A mobile app also allows visitors to interact with displays through their mobile devices without touching communal dials and knobs, the press release said.

Overall, more than 30 artists' exhibitions are on display for visitors to explore at Seismique.

Artists featured at Seismique include Japanese crochet artist Toshiko Horiuchi MacAdam who has been active globally since the 1960s. Horiuchi MacAdam has created a playscape using colorful crocheted materials that allow children to explore her work in three dimensions through her installation "Public Art for Kids" which began as an installation for a park in Tokyo and has since evolved and grown.

Seismique's "Eden" display is inspired by the movie "Avatar" with bright colors and carved trees for visitors to enjoy.

Another featured exhibit is an "Avatar" inspired exhibit called "Eden" which is a large gallery by New Orleans-based artist David Carry in collaboration with Brian Val Habisreiteringer.

"Eden" includes oversized carved trees, custom lighting and ultra-violet, blacklight-reactive paint and three large holograms.

Horiuchi MacAdam has a second gallery entitled "Venus" with a multi-dimensional playground designed to emulate the surface of the planet Venus. The display is fairly unique as one of only three installations of its type in the country. "Venus" is surrounded by a mural entitled "Ocular Existence" by Chicago-based artist C.J. Hungerman.

Museum guests can also visit "Acid Rain," an installation piece designed and constructed by Mark Roberts of Smooth Technology that provides the optical illusion of walking through rain that comes from the ground up. As viewers work their way through the display, the rain appears to freeze in midair and eventually reverse its flow and move groundward.

Other displays will also be available for visitors to explore including "The Hub," a 70-foot spaceship that creates a display using 1,000,000 LEDs and features other multisensory displays.

Kopelman said he and his collaborator on the Seismique project, Josh Corley – both Houston-area natives – were inspired by many artists as they travelled the world and the museum is the "singular manifestation of our collective imaginations."

Nearly 60 years later in the same city, Seismique will further embody the limitless potential of space exploration through the lenses of art and technology," Kopelman concluded.

The right kind of Christmas sounds

“Hello. I’m Grandpa.” For Christmas 50 years ago, my parents splurged and bought me a compact reel-to-reel tape recorder. My father had whetted my appetite with remarks that one could build a primitive voice recorder along the lines of Thomas Edison’s prototype, but this was the real store-bought deal.

I took the prized possession along when my paternal grandparents hosted Christmas dinner for the very last time.

I THINK the device is still nestled in my mother’s attic; but even without it, I distinctly remember Granddaddy Carl neglecting his King Leo stick candy long enough to lean forward and humor me by uttering, “Hello. I’m Grandpa” for the benefit of posterity.

Certainly, favorite carols playing over the radio or the shopping mall PA system create priceless Christmas memories; but, like my grandfather’s announcement, there are so many other sounds that warm the cockles of our hearts and create cherished remembrances.

For instance, the laughter that accompanies good-natured ribbing when a new boyfriend or girlfriend meets the extended family for the first time.

Or the woofs, meows and neighs of new pets delivered to their forever home by Santa.

Don’t forget the joyous sound of well-wishers when a family member announces a pregnancy, or when a baby experiences its first Christmas.

We can relive our own childhoods when we overhear youngsters unleashing their imaginations or discovering “Jingle Bells, Batman Smells” for the first time.

Even a distressing sound such as spinning tires stuck in snow can be outweighed by the sound of a neighbor (or a total stranger) asking, “What can I do to help?” instead of “What’s in it for me?”

A well-worded, heartfelt prayer over a Christmas meal can fortify us just as much as the protein, vitamins and minerals.

Yes, Christmases seem to come faster and faster; but there is ample time for obstacles, disappointments and disasters between them. That’s why we should embrace all the pleasant audio memories we can get.

On the other hand, some Christmas sounds are toxic.

A respectful exchange of political viewpoints keeps office parties and family get-togethers lively, but overheated ultimatums have no place on the holiday celebrating the Prince of Peace.

Christmas is not the time

“We can relive our own childhoods when we overhear youngsters unleashing their imaginations or discovering ‘Jingle Bells, Batman Smells’ for the first time.”

for families to serve up heaping helpings of long-simmering complaints about favoritism, inheritances or ostentatious displays of wealth. As the Horatio R. Palmer hymn advises, “Angry words, oh, let them never/ From the tongue unbridled slip. / May the heart’s best impulse ever / Check them ere they soil the lip.”

Some people spend all year guaranteeing that the yuletide season will be miserable for themselves and others. Christmas should be a time for togetherness and sharing, not a time for finger-pointing or self-flagellation.

Life gives us enough hard knocks without our wallowing in self-inflicted wounds (whether from dimwitted investments, shortsighted health decisions or hormone-driven shaky relationships). Good planning minimizes the need for abject apologies or violent defensiveness.

I have my “Hello. I’m Grandpa” memories to keep me warm – as well as the sound made by the “air blaster” toy I received all those decades ago and the ability to conjure up the jokes of long-gone aunts and uncles.

I’m sure you have your own favorite Christmas-connected sounds. I hope that this year you can accentuate the positive, eliminate the negative and make new connections that will last throughout the years.

All I want for Christmas is the new vaccine!

Now that we are well into the month of December, my three teenage daughters have provided me with their extensive Christmas lists – both electronic and hard copies – in triplicate. Full of the typical objects of adolescent desires like designer clothing, electronics, jewelry, and luxury vehicles, their lists read like the inventory of Elon Musk’s next yard sale.

My list, on the other hand, is simple. All I want for Christmas is for life to return to the way it was in the good old days of 2019 – and not just because I had less ear hair then.

Like virtually every other human on earth, other than toilet paper manufacturers, I want the COVID-19 crisis to end. And God willing, the end is on the horizon with the emergence of several vaccines.

Now, I realize that there is great debate about the safety of the vaccines and whether Americans should roll up the sleeves of their hazmat suits and take them.

I, for one, would be excited to accept these injections even if they had to be administered into my eyeballs or under my fingernails. Sure, the vaccines might cause me to grow an extra head or two, but at least my heads could be mask-free. Of course, I’m kidding. I know masks will still be required on all of my heads for the near future.

Seriously, though, I can scarcely bear the thought of more than one Christmas being marred by the necessary inconveniences of face coverings, social distancing and – worst of all – hand washing. I mean, really!

One change my family will face at this year’s Christmas celebration is that our church will hold its yearly candlelight Christmas Eve service virtually, meaning that we’ll have to watch the event online, and break out a BIC lighter and some leftover birthday candles like we did several years ago when our youngest daughter had pneumonia. That year, we almost turned our home into a giant yule log. Maybe this year I can avoid burning off my eyebrows during “Silent Night!”

Another change is that our time with grandparents (and their food) will be limited at best. One of the most meaningful Christmas traditions for me is to loiter around my mom and dad’s dining table – laden with every high-carb Christmas treat imaginable – and graze like a famished Angus bull. I’ve been known to consume my own weight in Dad’s homemade Chex mix, but this year – if I’m lucky – I’ll only get as much as he can send home with me. (Fortunately, the back seats fold down in my SUV.)

Probably the most painful change for my three daughters is that they will be forced to spend the bulk of the Christmas celebration at home with their parents. Even an escape to go visit their cousins, grandparents, and ancillary relatives will likely be off the agenda this year, meaning they’ll be faced with the terrifying prospect of being cooped up in the house with us for family board games, sing-alongs, and – heaven forbid – old home movies featuring moments from their early childhood when they (sometimes pantless) actually acknowledged our existence.

Christmas of 2020 will definitely create unique memories (until we find a way to repress them). Hopefully we can all follow the example of Linus in “A Charlie Brown Christmas” and remember what Christmas is all about.

And although the only thing I really want for Christmas is an end to the COVID-19 pandemic, I am hoping that someone gets me a new ear hair trimmer.

Harris County elections were fair and secure

By PATRICK SVITEK
THE TEXAS TRIBUNE

A task force formed to ensure the security of the November election in Texas' biggest county has found no evidence of wrongdoing after finishing its work.

The Harris County Election Security Task Force was made up of the Harris County Precinct 1 constable's office, the district attorney's office, the county attorney's office and the county clerk's office. In a report published Friday, the task force said it "received approximately 20 allegations of wrongdoing that needed to be elevated to the level of a formal investigation."

"Despite claims, our thorough investigations found no proof of any election tampering, ballot harvesting, voter suppression, intimidation or any other type of foul play that might have impacted the legitimate cast or count of a ballot," the report says.

MICHAEL STRAVATO FOR THE TEXAS TRIBUNE

The Election Security Task Force for Harris County said in a report released Friday that it "found no proof of any election tampering, ballot harvesting, voter suppression, intimidation or any other type of foul play that might have impacted the legitimate cast or count of a ballot."

Harris County, home to Houston, was the epicenter of the voting rights battle that led up to the

Nov. 3 election in Texas, with state GOP leaders battling the county clerk, then Chris Hollins, over his proposed changes to election procedures due to the coronavirus pandemic. The fallout is still underway, with authorities arresting a former Houston police captain Tuesday for his role in an elaborate plot to find evidence for a false conspiracy theory of widespread voter fraud across the county.

And while the task force returned no evidence of wrongdoing, the district attorney, Kim Ogg, announced last week that a grand jury had indicted three people for allegedly trying to illegally influence races in two Houston-area state House districts. Two face allegations that they submitted paperwork for a candidate under a fake name in a Democratic primary. A third was accused of sending threats to a Democratic legislator in hopes of scaring her into dropping her bid for reelection.

The task force operated from Oct. 13 through Nov. 3, which was Election Day, according to the report. Undercover officers made 6,311 visits to 122 early voting and 806 Election Day polling sites. The task force responded to 77 calls for service. And it used four explosive-detecting K-9 units to make 323 sweeps of polling locations, as well as "continual sweeps" while voters dropped off ballots at NRG Stadium on Election Day. (The task force found no explosives.)

"We all worked together to ensure our elections, which are the lifeblood of democracy, were free and fair and that any and all allegations were thoroughly investigated," Ogg said.

The four county offices represented on the task force are all led by Democrats.

There were nearly 1.7 million votes cast in Harris County last month. The county continued to become bluer, with Joe Biden carrying it by 13 percentage points, a slightly larger margin than Hillary Clinton won it by four years earlier.

SUPPORTING LOCAL BUSINESSES

Readers looking to support local businesses can use a few tricks to find the local businesses offering the products and services they need. The Fulshear Katy Area Chamber of Commerce launched a new service earlier this year that helps identify local businesses through an online search engine located at www.tricountysearch.com. The search engine limits results to businesses located in Waller, Harris and Fort Bend counties to ensure local results.

Fulshear Katy Chamber President Don McCoy said that while the chamber prioritizes chamber members by placing them at the top of the search results, all businesses in the area are welcome to register their business with the search because the chamber wants to champion all businesses in the community it serves.

the part of the NFBWA and the subsidence district.

"I do think the public generally understands what's happening now," Groff said. "The problem is we're not seeing that return and the fees continue to grow, and they haven't hit their deadlines. ... There's a whole lot of pieces in play that I think continue to frustrate our constituents. In addition to the cost, we're paying for something that we're not getting and that's a hard pill to swallow."

Growth agreement

After a closed session to discuss the issue, Fulshear City Council members also approved a development agreement with DR Horton for the development of a residential area consisting of about 1,300 acres within the city's extraterritorial jurisdiction, or ETJ.

Groff said the city had gotten several beneficial concessions from the developer including about seven acres to accommodate a regional water treatment plant after Fort Bend MUD 222 operates a temporary wastewater treatment plant there for the initial phase of the subdivision's development.

The development agreement includes a 26-acre section of parkland that is expected to bring ball fields to the city, Groff said.

Representatives from the developer said that, while about 3,700 single family homes with an average lot size of about 6,000 square feet will be built - about 25% of which may be 4,500 square feet or less - around 1,800 multi-family homes such as apartments, condos or duplexes may be built on the property as the final plans for it develop.

Other items

- Council approved a variance for the monument sign at Jordan High School. The variance was approved despite the sign which is already installed being about twice the allowed height due to a former city staff member's error. Replacing the sign could have cost the district as much as $60,000 per Katy ISD General Counsel Justin Graham who spoke at the meeting.

- Council also approved an agreement with Fort Bend County to extend Bois D'Arc Lane directly north from its intersection at McKinnon Road to FM 1093 at Tiki Drive. City staff said this extension was expected to improve traffic flow in the area, especially during times when parents and students are traveling on Charger Way in the morning and afternoon as classes begin or end at the schools that serve the city.

SUBSIDENCE FIGHTERS

The North Fort Bend Regional Water Authority and Harris-Galveston Subsidence District are developing projects to mitigate the negative impact of subsidence on Greater Houston, including Fulshear, Katy and the surrounding area. Subsidence can cause damage to roads and buildings and increases flood risks by lowering land topographically. For more information on these municipalities, refer to the following resources:

Public meetings are held at 5 p.m. the fourth Wednesday of the month and are currently being

If it is not toilet paper, then it shouldn't be flushed.

Jim Baker's Unified Theory Of Everything --- With God's Help

(JBUTOE-WGH) A new book about Science and God. Revised publish date: late 2020

BAKER'S BOOKS, Katy, TX

22237 Katy FRWY (close to Landry's)

(ad revised: 11/22/2019; previous ads are null and void)

This new book will contain a credible "unified theory of everything" that can explain the very basics of science. Albert Einstein predicted that someone "off the street" was going to do this someday. After 53 years (at approx. year 2000), I decided to include God at every step of the process of trying to come up with a scientific "Theory of Everything". Prior to this, it was about the "only thing" I felt I had not been successful at inventing or figuring out. --- You see, God had already given me the gift of inventing at age 9-10, in His response to my Second Major Prayer. --- By the year 2014, God had allowed me to assemble sufficient knowledge that I felt 95%, of what I needed to figure out, had been accomplished.

One thing I had always wished for, especially as I was approaching the age of 40, is for God to speak to me. Well, when God did speak to me, I liked my first message from God about as much, I suppose, as Abraham liked his message from God, when he was told to sacrifice his son. But God was testing both of us! God was also making us stronger.

There are still two major topics in life to be addressed, prior to publishing the new book. One is a major release of scientific information of the new theory across the U.S.A. The second is starting an evangelical ministry.

Author of new book is a Chemistry graduate (B.S. 1971/M.S. 1978) of Texas A&M (A&I) in Kingsville, TX. He also attended S.A.C. in San Antonio. He has additional hours at SWTSU, Texas Tech U., Boston College, Westinghouse PWR. He has worked at Texas Uranium Operations as Chief Chemist, at South Texas Nuclear Project as Nuclear Chemist during pre-startup, and retired from City of Houston where he was in charge of Technical Services Section of Bureau of Air Quality Control. Owner of BAKER'S BOOKS is also the author of God's Amazing Answer To Prayer, in 2012.

Taylor High School star O-linemen Foster, Conner to continue illustrious athletic careers at A&M, Texas

By DENNIS SILVA II
SPORTS EDITOR

The goals are the 2024 Olympics and NFL Draft. That's always been the M.O. for Bryce Foster, a two-sport athlete with an impossibly bright future.

On Friday, Dec. 18, the Taylor senior offensive lineman and dominant discus thrower and shot-putter chose the next chapter of his career in which to pursue those goals when he put on the maroon and white hat of Texas A&M.

The 6-foot-5, 330-pound Foster, a four-star recruit and Rivals.com's No. 1 offensive guard in the class of 2021, picked Texas A&M over Oklahoma, Texas, LSU and Oregon. Foster said he knew as early as Monday, Dec. 7, that the Aggies were it.

Foster declared his choice with a three-minute commitment video during a signing ceremony with teammates at the high school's performing arts center. When the video was over, Foster picked up the Texas A&M hat placed along the desk he sat at among the hats of the four other schools and placed it firmly upon his tousled hair.

On the football field, Foster will play for Jimbo Fisher and compete with the best of the best in the SEC, regarded as the country's most competitive college football conference. As a thrower, he will learn under legendary track and field coach Pat Henry

Defense dominant for No. 6 Falcons in win

Tompkins senior defensive back Colby Huerter had not returned a fumble for a touchdown since his sophomore season. Now he's got three in his last two playoff games.

Junior linebacker Bryce Shaink had not forced a fumble all season. He forced two in one game. Sophomore defensive back Caleb Komolafe had not had an interception return for a touchdown. That is no longer true.

The Falcons' defense was awe-inspiring in No. 6 state-ranked Tompkins' 51-28 win over No. 10 Cy-Fair in their Class 6A Division I area playoff final on Friday, Dec. 18, at Legacy Stadium. Cy-Fair (10-2) was without senior running back and four-star recruit LJ Johnson, who was ill.

Johnson, who attended the game and was dressed out on the sidelines, had rushed for 1,109 yards and 18 touchdowns this

Despite difficult ending, Panthers grateful for season

Paetow's impressive football season came to an abrupt and disappointing end on Thursday, Dec. 17, when the program was forced to shut down because of an abundance of COVID-19 cases, canceling the Panthers' Class 5A-DI area playoff game against New Braunfels Canyon last weekend as a result.

The game had already been rescheduled once after Katy ISD was informed of cases in the program on Wednesday, Dec. 16. The rescheduling was done "to ensure the Katy ISD emergency management team has sufficient time to conduct contact tracing and ensure student athletes

With 500 wins, Spartans' Spurlock in rare company

By DENNIS SILVA II

Growing up in north Louisiana, Angela Spurlock played basketball in her driveway, knocking down long jump shot after long jump shot, dreaming of becoming a coach.

Spurlock was a natural at softball; she eventually finished her college years playing for Stephen F. Austin. But basketball had her heart. In the fourth grade and all through high school, Spurlock attended basketball camps at Louisiana Tech, which was then winning national championships under renowned coach Leon Barmore. She watched players like Kim Mulkey and Teresa Weather- spoon star for the Lady Techsters.

Spurlock was a four-year varsity shooting guard for a Trinity Heights Christian Academy team that won two state championships and was a runner-up another year under legendary coach Merle Gore. It was there that her core beliefs about the game were refined.

"I've always believed that winning was a byproduct of doing the things that you really believe in," Spurlock said. "I was fortunate to play in a system in high school that taught me a lot. I was able to be around some coaches like Leon Barmore. It was those formable years when I was very impressionable. The system of basketball then was ingrained in me."

Spurlock eventually made a career out of basketball, a distinguished one at that. Now in her 24th season and is arguably the most talented Class of 2021 running back in the Greater Houston area.

"They run the same offense (without Johnson) and that quarterback (senior Carter Cravens) is a very competitive athlete," Tompkins coach Todd McVey said. "Those kids compete. They have a great program with a lot of tradition. I'm just proud of our kids."

Trailing 7-3 after the first quarter, Tompkins (10-0) scored 38 points in the second, inspired by four takeaways that led to 24 points.

"I was obviously very pleased," McVey said. "We stress turnovers all the time, so seeing them execute the things we work on in practice ... I'm very happy for."

During a two-minute, 28-second span midway through the second quarter, Tompkins' defense forced three consecutive turnovers and scored on all three. Huert-er had two consecutive fumble returns for touchdowns. Both fumbles, committed by Cravens, were caused by Shaink.

"I was attacking his hip, I got my arm through and just ripped it out," Shaink said. "We were just hitting hard. We just kept hitting them in the mouth. Once they got hit, they couldn't respond. It says a lot about our defense."

McVey was proud of Shaink, who has emerged as a consistent playmaker for one of the top defenses in the state.

"Bryce does his job," McVey said. "He's very intense. He's on his craft every day and he continues to get better. He's a very focused individual who wants to create havoc. When you separate the ball, good things happen, and he does a good job with that."

Mere moments after Huert-er's second fumble return for a touchdown, Kolomafe intercepted Cravens and returned it 44 yards for a score.

After a Sherman Smith 1-yard scoring run, the Falcons again scored off a turnover moments later when junior defensive back Maliik Edwards recovered a fumble caused by senior linebacker Temisan Alatan. Hunter Huckaby capitalized with a 33-yard field goal for a 41-7 halftime lead.

"What really changed this week is we were physical," Huerter said. "We were hitting. The balls were flying loose, and I got lucky. The ball kept coming to me and I did my job. It's all about having fun and being physical."

"I know all those boys at Cy-Fair. I played with them in 7-on-7. They're great guys. I knew how mean and physical they are. They're like Katy. They're a machine. I told our guys all week we just had to play physical. Do our job, be aligned and we came out on top."

The Falcons' starting offense scored just 14 points. Senior quarterback Jalen Milroe scored on a dazzling 55-yard run to score

Tompkins' first touchdown of the game in the second quarter and gave the Falcons the lead for good.

Tompkins only produced 288 yards of total offense. It didn't matter. The defense held Cy-Fair to 4.5 yards per play. In the fourth quarter, the Bobcats scored three touchdowns on 140 of their 307 total yards against Tompkins' backups.

"It brings fuel to us to watch our defense," Milroe said. "It makes us hungrier to fight. Those guys played their tails off. They don't like losing. Every single rep, they do not like to lose. They're always looking for ways to improve."

Cy-Fair's offense was on the field for 28-minutes, four-seconds. Tompkins' offense was on the field for just 19-minutes, 56-seconds.

"They better be happy we gave them that much of a break, man, I was getting exhausted," Huerter joked. "It's a lot of fun right now to play."

Next up for the Falcons? The defending Class 6A DI back-to-back state champion, 12-0 North Shore Mustangs, ranked No. 1 in the state. They play Thursday, Christmas Eve, at 1 p.m. at Legacy Stadium.

Tompkins players said they're excited about the opportunity. It's a matchup of two teams ranked in the top six in the state. A powerful offense in the Mustangs against the relentless defense of the Falcons.

It's also a matchup of two premier quarterbacks, potentially the start of a rivalry that will linger on into the SEC over the next few years: Alabama signee Milroe versus Auburn signee Demetrius Davis, who could make a claim as the best quarterback in Texas high school football history when his career is finished.

"We're excited to play in games like this," Milroe said. "I don't get caught up in all the comparisons. It's Tompkins versus North Shore. We're trying to steadily improve and get better, and I'm looking forward to playing a great team."

and staff are cleared to continue practicing and preparing for upcoming competitions," per a district release to the Katy Times.

Less than 24 hours later, however, after six more positive cases were reported, the game was canceled altogether. It will go down as a "no contest," and not a forfeit, for Paetow. Canyon gets a bye and advanced to the regional semifinals this week.

It's a heartbreaking end for Paetow's 33 seniors who were freshmen when the school opened its doors in August 2017. Paetow is the first Katy ISD football team this postseason to see its season end because of COVID-19, and the second in all. The Seven Lakes team tennis program had its area playoff game canceled because of cases in October.

"It was a hard-fought season," team captain and senior linebacker Christian Tibbetts said. "I can proudly say we made history and left a legacy being the first four-year class at Paetow. It sucks that we didn't go down at least swinging due to the virus; that part hurt the most. Nonetheless, I wouldn't take away anything our seniors and everyone on our team did to contribute to our success."

Paetow finished 9-1 this season and was coming off the first playoff win in school history, a 70-18 rout of Baytown Lee on Dec. 11.

"It's been about these seniors and their work ethic and them defying the odds," Paetow coach B.J. Gotte said. "These seniors came in as incoming freshmen when we had strength and conditioning camp in the parking lot at the junior high by the dumpster because our facilities weren't ready yet. Just working, building and molding this into what's it turned into. They've defied the expectations of what people have for start-up programs."

A couple of Paetow football players said they weren't feeling well on Monday, Dec. 14, and were sent home. One tested positive, which triggered the district to have the entire team tested. Through that process, over Tuesday night and through the day Wednesday, a number of kids on the varsity roster tested positive.

The district's emergency management team met to create a mitigation plan that Wednesday. The kids who tested positive were removed, and the plan was to test the entire team and program staff over the next three days to show if the mitigation plan was removing the positive cases.

But six more positives showed up the next day, and the emergency management team decided it was in the best interest of the kids and their health to not play.

Positive cases affected 18 varsity starters for the Panthers, particularly throughout the offensive and defensive lines, tight ends, and outside linebackers, but Gotte had confidence he could still field a competitive team for the Canyon game with varsity backups and junior varsity starters.

"I told our leadership when they called to get my input that I'm a fighter," Gotte said. "If we can't play, it's not going to be because I say we can't play. We're going to keep swinging until they tell us we can't. If they're asking my opinion if we can put a competitive team on the field? Yes. Will we be as competitive as before we lost 18 starters? No, but we will compete. We have kids who have trained and prepared for this."

"But as it pertains to COVID, that's their (EMT) call. If they didn't feel it was safe, I supported them 100 percent. That's their job. But as it pertains to me as a football coach, I'm not worried about the health and safety of our kids on the football field as it pertains to being football players."

Gotte's focus was on the positives of a negative situation. There were opportunities for seniors who had not played much this season to play a lot against Canyon. Some of the younger kids who had not played a varsity game, it was a chance for them to get big-game varsity reps as well.

But the number of positive cases never waned.

"We had 'X' amount of positives one day, 'X' amount of positives another day," Gotte said. "It shows community spread. I do know leadership's plans are thorough and well thought-out and they're trying to do what's in the best interest of kids."

The seniors were sophomores when the Panthers went 3-7 in their inaugural year of varsity play in 2018. As juniors last year, that turned around, remarkably, to 8-3 and a first playoff appearance. This season, Paetow was ranked in the top five in Class 5A in the Greater Houston area with signature wins over Barbers Hill, Class 6A Morton Ranch, Angleton, Hightower, Class 6A Deer Park and Lee.

"I think what I take away most is we set the standard of excellence," Tibbetts said. "You know, being here since the start of SAC camp workouts in the parking lot to fighting in the second round of the playoffs years later is big, really. Thanks to our coaching staff and staff overall, there's a lot to be happy about, man. The encouraging thing is we can always get better. And that's what I expect out of these underclassmen. I want to see Paetow win a state championship, and I'll be around to see it happen."

Senior captains this season were Tibbetts, defensive back Carl Simon and offensive lineman Demetrius Elko. Gotte remembered going to Katy Junior High to talk to prospective Panther athletes the spring before the school opened. He met with four kids. One of those was Tibbetts, then a 'C' team lineman who eventually played an essential role in setting a winning foundation for a newborn program.

"Most people associate going to a new school as a sentence," Gotte said. "Our seniors get to say that they played in big games, competed in the playoffs, and our kids now feel they can go into big games and have a chance. Our kids believe they can win. For us to be at that stage, with our seniors getting to experience that, is probably the most memorable thing for me."

"We're fortunate to get to play 10 games. There's a lot of teams that didn't. There's a lot of people across the country who are dealing with a lot worse than we are. We'll pick ourselves up, celebrate what we accomplished, go back to work and be appreciative for what we had."

Skinner works way to Eastern Illinois

By DENNIS SILVA II
SPORTS EDITOR

When Brooks Haack was hired as offensive coordinator at Mayde Creek last spring, he was intrigued at what he had in 6-foot-2, 192-pound senior receiver L'den Skinner.

Haack, a former honorable mention all-state quarterback at Katy High, was bringing a wide-open, pass-happy spread offense to the Rams. Right away, he knew he had a talent in Skinner.

"L is a great kid and someone we knew early on that he was going to be an instrumental part of the offense," Haack said. "He was very raw, and I could tell once he understood what we were trying to teach him, then sky's the limit on what he could accomplish."

Skinner was just as excited as Haack. He had primarily been a blocking receiver for a Rams offense that was run-dominant under previous head coach Mike Rabe.

Getting the ball more was a welcomed thought.

"I knew this was my chance to show what I could do," Skinner said. "It was my spotlight."

That light shone fairly bright as Skinner was one of the more dynamic playmakers in Katy ISD football this season. He led all of Katy ISD in receiving with 768 yards and a touchdown on 50 catches, averaging 15.4 yards per catch for the district's top offense. It was a considerable rise from 2019, when he had 10 catches for 211 yards and a touchdown.

Though a relative newcomer to the sport and position, having played football only since the seventh grade and receiver since his sophomore year, Skinner earned an opportunity to play at the next level when he signed to play for Eastern Illinois on Dec. 16.

Skinner plans to hold a public signing ceremony in February.

"When I first talked to Eastern Illinois, I could tell they had a family atmosphere from the jump," Skinner said. "Everything clicked. We just had this chemistry off the bat. The people and the community at Eastern Illinois was strong."

Skinner said he's barely scratched his potential.

"I feel I can show off my speed a lot more," said Skinner, who runs a 4.42 hand-timed 40-yard dash. "I showed it off a couple games early on, but I want to show how fast I can really run with the ball in my hands and how fast I can run after the catch."

"This was my first year ever having the football in my hands. I had a lot to learn, and I still do."

Skinner had a rough season opener against Conroe, when he had two catches for 29 yards and dropped three passes.

"I could say I was too excited; my first game, it wasn't great at all," he said. "It was terrible. But I came back to myself. I couldn't let the moment soak me up. I had to just play my game."

Eventually, Skinner got more comfortable as a primary option on offense. Haack said his route-running and understanding of how to use his body and leverage improved drastically.

Physically, Skinner has all the tools. Every program wants a tall, fast receiver, especially Eastern Illinois, which plans to use Skinner on both the outside and inside and will play him as a true freshman if he proves himself.

"A few things he can get better at would be understanding the game and coverages and how to win a route versus everything," said Haack, who played collegiately at Louisiana-Lafayette and Northwestern State. "Speed and strength will come as well at the next level, and just being a student of the game."

Growing up, Skinner always wanted to be a professional athlete. He just thought he'd be in the majors.

He played centerfield and shortstop for his travel ball teams from nine years old up until his freshman year. His mom only started letting him play football in the seventh grade at Mayde Creek Junior High.

"She hated it," Skinner said, laughing. "She didn't like how physical it was, felt it was abusive to the body. She's actually starting to like it more now. She won't admit it, but she does."

Skinner loves it. He played fullback, which is where he learned to appreciate the art of blocking, and cornerback in junior high. As a freshman, he played outside linebacker. His sophomore year, he was moved to receiver.

His one endearing memory is that first touchdown catch, a 65-yarder. From there, he only wanted more and more.

"I just like catching the ball and running with it," he said. "If you gave me that, I was good."

This season was the culmination of it all. He had a 48-yard catch against Cypress Lakes. A 37-yard haul against Dulles. His touchdown catch went for 91 yards against Taylor.

Skinner's 50 catches were 17 more than the next-best receiver in that department and his yards were almost 100 more than the next-best in that respective category.

"He's a young man that deserves everything that's coming his way," Haack said, "and if he will continue to work, like I know he will, then he will have a great career and great life even after football."

season as a head coach, and 16th year at the helm of Seven Lakes' girls basketball program, Spurlock is in an exclusive class of coaches in Katy ISD, becoming just the fourth to have 500 career wins after the Spartans beat Katy, 46-33, in their district opener Dec. 4 at Katy High.

Spurlock, who has been the head coach at C.E. King, Friendswood, Hightower and now Seven Lakes, joins Katy High baseball coach Tom McPherson, Cinco Ranch wrestling coach Bill Dushane and Katy High softball coach Kalum Haack in the 500 club.

"It's been a career filled with something I absolutely and truly love and adore, so it never feels like work," Spurlock said. "There's good days and bad days, sure, but I work hard and our players work harder. It's never been a job, and the benefit of loving something and being able to do it for a living, you accomplish things that maybe you think you'll never do."

Following the Spartans' 67-16 win over Morton Ranch on Dec. 18, Spurlock has a career record of 504-298, a winning percentage of 62.8 percent. She has led teams to 19 playoff appearances, 12 district championships and two regional finals.

At Seven Lakes, Spurlock has a 315-181 record, a 63.5 win percentage. Her Spartans won seven straight district titles from 2011-2018.

"The main thing she has taught me is to always believe," senior forward Lily Baumgardner said. "She has really showed me when you truly believe in something, you can accomplish anything, no matter how big the goal."

Spurlock's foundation is defense—predicated upon heart, effort and desire, all traits she demands as core values of her program—and respecting opponents and shooting. She embraces the notion that she is an "old-school coach."

Her players dress alike on game days, arrive and leave together, and do things as a team. Unity is a part of the Spartans' success and has only been enhanced through expectations.

"During my junior year, going through a PCL (posterior cruciate ligament) surgery, Coach Spurlock included me in everything," senior guard Addison Poth said. "Even though I couldn't play, she made sure I was a part of the team as a leader for the younger players. She really helped me get through the toughest year of my career. It has made this season more special, since I was allowed to work my way back to also being a leader on the court."

Spurlock emphasizes discipline and accountability, and having fun doing so. Junior guard KK Tucker said Spurlock taught her how to be responsible in her academics, athletics and home life. Tucker also remembers Spurlock spraying them with silly string before pregame shootarounds last season, which energized and excited the players just as they were about to hit the court.

Playing for Spurlock, junior guard Aliyah Atiqi said, is "an honor and a privilege."

"My favorite memory is just being part of Coach Spurlock's 500th career victory," Atiqi said. "Seeing her being so humble, but I know deep down inside it meant a lot to her."

Indeed, Spurlock was taken aback when she was presented with balloons and a banner sign honoring her 500th win after the Katy game. She didn't think anyone knew. She certainly was not going to bring it up; Spurlock loathes discussing herself, always wanting to keep the topic of conversation on her team.

She did admit, though, that accomplishing the career milestone at a school she helped open up, for a program she started from scratch in 2005, was rewarding.

"It was a cool opportunity and a bucket-list thing to open a school," Spurlock said. "I always wondered what it would be like to take the knowledge of what I had learned as a player and young coach and see if I could apply those pillars and cornerstones to a program that didn't know anything. It's a pretty humbling, emotional experience to know it was successful."

Recently, Spurlock allowed herself a rare moment to reflect on her basketball life. From playing with a larger-sized basketball and no 3-point line in high school to her playing days at Panola Junior College to two regional final appearances at Friendswood and Seven Lakes.

Spurlock remembers some of the wins, but like any great coach, the losses are what stick with her.

"Those losses taught me how to win," Spurlock said. "The loss column is probably just as important as the win column, if you really look at how true teaching and learning the game of basketball takes place."

Spurlock is appreciative of every player, grateful for every assistant coach, and thankful for all four school districts she has worked for. She is encouraged about this year's 8-1 team, excitedly noting, of course, its dominant defensive performances to start the season.

And she is thrilled for what is still to come. "I've enjoyed the journey and I've enjoyed the process," Spurlock said, "and, God willing, I hope it continues."

and throws coach Juan De La Garza, who has coached eight national champions and three Olympians.

"It was coming down to a decision and I was putting everything together, as far as football, track and field, connections after football," Foster said. "Who could prepare me to achieve my goals of the 2024 Olympics and draft? A&M is the best spot for that."

Signing on his 18th birthday only made the day more special.

"It's definitely a weight off my shoulders," Foster said. "It's been a fun process, but there were stressful times. Now it's a story I can tell my kids one day, like 'Yeah, I committed to Texas A&M with this cool build-up, on my 18th birthday, and all this type of stuff. I think it's the best decision I've ever made.'"

Foster said the effects COVID-19 had on the recruiting process—such as no official visits, spring football or summer camps—made the decision difficult. In the end, he went with what he knew. His mother attended Texas A&M and his brother, Braden Meador, was an offensive lineman for the Aggies.

"A lot of it, I had to go off gut feeling," Foster said. "I've been at A&M ever since I was 10 or 11 years old, since my brother was there. I've been to camps and I would stay with him in his dorm room while he practiced. I thought it was the coolest thing that he knew guys like (former Aggie and current Cleveland Brown) Myles Garrett."

Foster signed on the same day his fellow offensive line teammate, three-star tackle recruit Hayden Conner, publicly signed to the University of Texas. The 6-foot-5, 317-pound Conner verbally committed to Texas on July 23, 2019, and officially signed on Early Signing Day on Wednesday.

After being teammates and helping establish the Mustangs as one of the top teams in the area over the past four years, Foster and Conner will be playing for schools notorious for their heated rivalry.

"I'm just glad he's staying in Texas," Conner said. "I'm glad he's not going to OU.

That's probably the best thing that came out of (the ceremony)."

Taylor offensive line coach Travis Sharp vividly remembered watching Foster during his first practice four years ago.

"Somebody was holding a hand shield, and when he came off the ball, he punched and it sounded like thunder," Sharp recalled. "It really did. I'll never forget it."

Since then, Foster, affectionately nicknamed "The Mountain," has been an irreplaceable part of the Mustangs' offensive line, playing guard, center and tackle. He also played on the defensive line, strip-sacking the quarterback in the process, during Taylor's 28-13 win over Houston Heights in their area playoff win Dec. 18.

Sharp said Foster's hands, feet and strength are "unbelievable." Foster is the program's bench-press record holder at 415 pounds. He has allowed only one sack in the last 24 games.

Foster is also a state silver medalist in the shot put and a state bronze medalist in the discus. He is the No. 1 discus thrower in the nation for the class of 2021 and No. 2 in the shot put.

But more than any physical trait, Sharp said it's Foster's competitiveness that puts him above and beyond.

"My favorite memory was the day we put him at center (last year against Memorial in the playoffs)," Sharp said. "He shows up and he's so fired up. He's screaming and yelling, and I said, 'Man, Bryce, I've never seen you like this.' He said, 'Coach, it's a challenge.' He embraced that challenge and he met it head on. That shows the kind of person he is."

Conner and Foster are passionate about putting Taylor football on the map. Taylor made the playoffs just twice in five seasons before the duo arrived on campus. Since then, the Mustangs have made the playoffs each of the last four seasons and won at least one playoff game each of those years; last season, they were Class 6A Division II state semifinalists.

When he was in middle school, Conner had the option of attending Katy High or Taylor. His parents were divorced, and one lived near Katy High feeder Katy Junior High and the other lived near Taylor feeder West Memorial Junior High.

"I had the choice, and I wanted to start something at Taylor," Conner said in deciding to attend Taylor over the perennial state football power at Katy High. "I think it's mission accomplished. We did that together, and it's been really good to change a program with Bryce. I wish we could've done it together in college."

Just as he took pride in turning around a program like Taylor, Conner is looking forward to doing the same at Texas, despite heavy criticism these days surrounding the Longhorns' play and head coach Tom Herman.

"I know there are bumps during a season and people are going to say this and that, but I know what the UT program is capable of," Conner said. "I'm going to help change it when I get there. I ignore all that noise because those are people that don't know anything about the program. They're just saying stuff. I'm excited about Texas and getting the program back to a national championship."

Foster said "it's really big" that he and Conner are staying in-state to continue their college careers. And he's eager to continue the recent successful pipeline created between Taylor and Texas A&M, joining guys like Max Wright and Braedon Mowry.

"The coaches really helped me mature and grow, as well as the other guys who've come through the program like Max Wright, (UCLA defensive lineman) Otito (Ogbonnia)," Foster said. "Humble guys who really helped me and Hayden through this whole process."

Senior running back Jalen Davis scored on the first play from scrimmage for the sixth time this season, and the Tigers were off and running against Lamar (6-4). Katy totaled 574 yards, 417 on the ground, and 22 first downs. The Tigers held Lamar to 88 total yards and nine first downs.

Davis had 113 yards and two touchdowns on nine carries. Sophomore running back Seth Davis had 186 yards and two touchdowns on 11 carries. In the game, the Davis brothers each surpassed the 1,000-yard rushing mark for the season. Seth Davis has 1,177 yards and 13 touchdowns. Jalen Davis has 1,079 yards and 18 touchdowns.

Koger completed six of nine passes for 125 yards and two touchdowns to senior receivers Taylor Saulsberry and Fuller Shurtz. Koger has thrown 16 touchdown passes to just two interceptions this season.

The Tigers led 46-0 at the half as Katy coach Gary Joseph rested his starters in the second half. It was the fifth time this season Katy has held an opponent to seven or fewer points in a game.

Shadow Creek is led by Baylor signee and 6-foot-2, 195-pound senior quarterback Kyrion Drones, who has completed 50.3 percent of his passes for 1,455 yards and 19 touchdowns to six interceptions. Drones has also rushed for 384 yards and three more touchdowns.

The Sharks have a trio of potent receivers in seniors Greg Hancock (717 yards, eight TDs) and CJ Guidry (403 yards, nine TDs), and junior Lawrence Armstrong (269 yards, five TDs). Shadow Creek's defense is led by senior linebackers Byron Roberson (11 tackles per game, four tackles for a loss) and Terrence Cooks (7.9 tackles per game, four tackles for a loss, two sacks).

Shadow Creek's three losses this season have come to No. 1 North Shore, No. 7 Bridgeland and No. 16 Pearland Dawson.
