Former county judge offers infrastructure insights

GEORGE SLAUGHTER

Former Harris County Judge Ed Emmett poses with Harris County Pct. 4 Commissioner R. Jack Cagle following a presentation by Emmett at an infrastructure summit hosted by the Katy Area Chamber of Commerce.

If the U.S. interstate highway system were to be built today, how and where would it be built? Former Harris County Judge Ed Emmett shared his thoughts about these questions, and perspectives on infrastructure in Harris County, Thursday.

Emmett today is a fellow in energy and transportation policy at the Baker Institute at Rice University. He spoke at an infrastructure summit held at the Embassy Suites, 16435 Katy Fwy. The Katy Area Chamber of Commerce hosted the event.

"Interstate highways are old, and for people like me that's a problem because I remember when they were being built and towns fought over which ones got the interstate highways and which ones didn't," Emmett said. "Everybody wanted them. They increased mobility. They made everybody's lives better. If you go back and look at the economic boom that occurred in the United States, I don't think it's a stretch to say that the interstate highway system contributed more than anything else to that boom."

On where and how highways would be built today, Emmett shared a quote out of the New York Times that said highway expansions increase traffic and pollution.

"Do they really increase traffic or do they accommodate the traffic?" Emmett asked. "And do they increase pollution or do they actually cut down on it because you don't have all those cars stuck and spewing things out the exhaust pipe."

Emmett said there is a new theory, espoused even by some of his colleagues at the Baker Institute, that says some of the most dangerous pollution comes out of tires, not out of the exhaust pipe.

"You never think about that," Emmett said. "But particulates and all that is the tires wearing out. Anyway, that's something else to think about."

Emmett described another article as saying that an infrastructure bill could address past harms to black and low-income neighborhoods

Council hears concerns about garbage removal

BY GEORGE SLAUGHTER
NEWS EDITOR

The president and owner of the city's waste services provider apologized for recent garbage pickup headaches Monday, and said his company has made changes and hired new personnel to ensure more consistent service for city residents.

Kevin Atkinson, of Texas Pride Disposal, said his company, like others nationwide, is having staffing shortages following the pandemic and the February 2021 winter storm. He gave a report to the Katy City Council at its Monday meeting at City Hall.

"We tried to insulate customers like you," Atkinson said. "It's a challenge I've never faced in my career."

Atkinson said the company hired a consultant to help it navigate its personnel issues. The company also rerouted its pickup routes.

At one point, Atkinson said, the company had 96 routes and 92 drivers. Today, he said, it has 108 drivers, though some of them are still completing their training. He said the company has also restructured its pay setup.

"People in our industry realize they can make good money," Atkinson said.

Katy earns Tree City USA recognition

The Arbor Day Foundation has named Katy a 2021 Tree City USA in honoring the city's commitment to effective urban forest management.

Kathy Wiesner, a member of the Keep Katy Beautiful board of directors, said the city achieved this recognition by meeting four foundation-set criteria. These include forming a tree board or department, creating a tree-care ordinance, having an annual community forestry budget of at least $2 per capita, and an Arbor Day observance and proclamation.

Wiesner said the foundation sponsors the program in partnership with the U.S. Forest Service and the National Association

Waller County imposes burn ban

Communities take other measures as drought continues

BY GEORGE SLAUGHTER
NEWS EDITOR

Waller County has instituted a burn ban in response to the ongoing summer drought, with Fort Bend and Harris counties likely to follow suit, perhaps this week.

Waller County Deputy Fire Marshal Dean Hensley made the recommendation at the June 7 Waller County Commissioners Court meeting. Given the extended hot and dry conditions, neither County Judge Trey Duhon or the other commissioners needed persuading.

"It's been pretty hot, and I thought the latest forecast shows high pressure in place, and now we're inching up to 100 (degrees)," Duhon said.

Asked if any particular part of the county was worse off than the others, Hensley said no, and that things were tough all over. He described the drought as being on the west side of Texas and slowly moving to the east. According to the Texas A&M Forest Service, counties with major Texas cities such as Bexar (San Antonio), El Paso (El Paso), Nueces (Corpus Christi) and Travis (Austin) have burn bans now.

"It will trickle down to Harris County, I'm sure," Hensley said.

Commissioners asked if the burn ban would prevent staging of July 4 fireworks shows. Duhon said they would restrict certain types of shows, but was not more specific.

Fort Bend County last weekend opened public facilities to serve as emergency cooling shelters. County Judge KP George said county residents should prepare for the intense temperatures. One of those buildings opened was the Cinco Ranch Branch Library, 2620 Commercial Center Blvd.

The county urged its residents to reduce electric use by taking the following actions:

- Setting their thermostat to 78 degrees or higher.
- Turning off lights and pool pumps, and avoid using large appliances like

Craving some fatherhood advice?

Wow! Will this really be my 19th Father's Day as a father?

My biggest regret is that I've had to learn so much the hard way. To make life easier for other fathers and prospective fathers, I'm sharing reader-submitted pearls of wisdom:

Resign yourself to the fact that the mother of your progeny will probably never admit that you deserved an epidural for the paper cut you suffered from the Lamaze brochure.

Remember that whatever doesn't kill you only makes you available to encounter the next contender for Dirty Diaper from Hell.

The heck with stepping on Legos in the dark. Tell the kids you overheard their imaginary friend saying he/she prefers to play with imaginary toys.

Learn to deflect confrontations. ("Are you sure Justin said, 'My dad can whip your dad'? Your mother says you never clean your ears, so isn't it possible Justin instead declared, 'My uncle can whip your uncle'?")

Reward entrepreneurship. Fork over some cash for the mud pies. But don't fall for the extended warranty.

Ward off the annoying "Are we there yet?" whine by waxing endlessly philosophical during car trips. ("Is anyone ever really there yet? And if they do arrive, and they celebrate their arrival by clapping with one hand, what is the sound of...?")

Don't skimp on corny dad jokes. Revenge is a dish best served while attending a doll tea party.

Understand that the American Medical Association has determined that the act of circling a "date night" on the calendar is the leading cause of tonsillitis, appendicitis, bubonic plague, unionization of babysitters, etc.

Beware the Three G's when lecturing. Don't try the old "When I was your age" gambit when the unholy alliance of Google, Grandma, and Grandpa is there to fact-check you. ("Yes, your dad dutifully mowed the lawn for hours and hours—if, by 'hours and hours' you mean 'until he remembered where he hid his porn stash.")

Be a big shot by helping your offspring with their homework. ("The only thing faster than the speed of light is the speed at which families pass through the 'Kids Eat Free' sweet spot.")

Do not cause a scene over disagreements with coaches and umpires. You may, however, play it by ear if someone uses a hideous color for the "participation" ribbons.

Plan ahead. Manufacture a five-year supply of slightly altered videos of Spot frolicking at a farm upstate, in case you ever hear a disturbing noise while backing out of the driveway.

The earlier your child performs in a piano recital or dance recital, the more forgivable it is to test the fire alarm. (Editor's note: "Parents, don't try this at the auditorium!")

When those teenage attitudes bubble up, keep telling yourself, "This is just a phase, this is just a phase..."—pausing only long enough to tell the nice clerk, "Yes, I know I'm past due to sign up for Medicare, but..."

Let your daughter's suitor know that you remember what it's like to be a 16-year-old boy. And what it's like to be an expert on unsolved disappearances.

Beam with pride when your child decides to attend your alma mater. Beam a little less when they ask, "Which dorm has monsters under the bed?"

Retreat to the early "Goodnight Moon" days of fatherhood if your descendants wind up moving back home.

"Goodnight, man cave. Goodnight, speedboat. Goodnight, date night..."

Learning to enjoy life's real agitations

Americans are so angry about so many things—with partisan politics topping the list.

Politics is important, to be sure, because as we know from experience the ideas and policies implemented by our highly fallible government leaders can have beneficial and/or grave outcomes.

But in the social media era—as we carry our angry politics on our smartphones in our pockets all day—it's taking up much more of our daily lives, and making us more miserable than ever.

As I get older—as I realize I've taken politics a little too seriously over time—the real agitations of everyday life are becoming much more noticeable to me.

For example, I love banana cream pie, but few restaurants serve it because the bananas turn brown before all the pie is sold and people who don't know their bananas won't buy it.

Which means I must go without it.

How about parking tickets? I've had far too many for one man. Lots and lots of them.

I can afford parking tickets, but, boy, do they fry my bacon—especially when the meter maid is sticking the ticket under my windshield wiper as I walk back to my truck.

I especially dislike how "squeeze" mayonnaise dispensers stop dispensing when only half of the mayo in the bottle is gone.

TOM PURCELL
SPECIAL TO THE KATY TIMES

While we're on condiments, I really hate how that vinegary water comes out of the yellow mustard bottle and saturates your burger with ick before any mustard ever comes out.

Or how about coffee? The first cup every morning is glorious, but why is the second always a monumental let down?

And why do they put cotton in my vitamin bottles that my fingers are too fat to remove?

Same with texting. My fingers are too big to text—so I use voice translate, which mangles my words and leaves my friends and loved ones in a perpetual state of confusion.

A few more daily agitations I'd like to point out:

- Summer goes by way too fast every year. Why doesn't winter do that?

- I used to think that computing power and access to endless information would make us all smarter, so why are they making us less nimble and much more rigid-minded?

- Why is it so that in a large, wonderful country like ours, a handful of people too often have way too much power to influence what we think and do by restricting what we read, see or say on social media?

I love freedom, but the trouble with freedom—real, genuine freedom—is that when you truly embrace it you unleash all that is good in the human heart as well as things we may find unpleasant.

I am sorry so many humans are suffering in our world and that troubles me most of all.

We may try to blind ourselves to it, but it does have a way of clarifying your mind and making you realize how good we have it.

It's a realization too few of us are able to have even though we live in a free, prosperous place, albeit one with imperfections that need to be worked on.

In any event, there are a lot of things more agitating to our daily lives than the improper place we give to hyper-partisan politics.

How much better off we'd be if more people put on their curmudgeon glasses and started enjoying real agitations as I am learning to do!

Because real daily agitation abounds, people. Now open your eyes and enjoy it like I am learning to do!

caused by the interstate system.

“That’s what got me interested,” Emmett said. “Then we put together a research project at Baker because if you’re going to rebuild the interstate highway system, you have to go back and look at why was it built, where was it built in the first place. And now we live in a mobile culture where everybody’s going back and making judgments of what’s happened decades ago based on today’s values.”

Emmett said he didn’t know who made the decisions at the time, but somebody said that the interstate highways were all going to go into downtowns.

“Does that make sense really?” Emmett asked. “Not necessarily. I’m not sure I want to go to downtown. But the promoters in various cities said their goal they’ve got to go in to downtown. Why? Commuters, I assume. But then what’s the first thing they did when they actually made them into downtown. They built loops so you didn’t have to go to downtown.”

Emmett said if one were to build anything in the 1950s and 1960s into a downtown area, that construction would likely go through minority neighborhoods that ring the downtowns because that’s where people of color lived then. That had an effect, Emmett said.

“There’s no point in saying no, it didn’t destroy the neighborhoods because frankly, it did,” Emmett said. “But was it the intent? I think not, but we’re going to go back and try to figure that out.”

Building highways often means relocating longtime residents.

“There’s going to be headwind and there’s also a big movement of, frankly, to not build any more highways,” Emmett said, quoting but not naming a present Harris County Commissioners Court member who, he said, felt “we should build highways for people, not cars.”

Emmett said the last time he checked, cars all had people in them.

“Even autonomous vehicles are going to have people,” Emmett said. “That’s the whole purpose. But it also ignores freight, but underlying is a belief and you can decide if it’s right or wrong. The belief is that if we just don’t build highways, then people will move back into town and we will restore urbanism is the way it should be in their point of view.”

Emmett said the flaw with that view is that people moved out of the inner city for schools. Another reason, he said, was more property. He said the COVID pandemic will affect the situation because more people are working from home and the downtown office buildings aren’t filling up as they had previously.

TRASH

Roger Lowry, a retired maintenance worker, was a complainant.

“The last three weeks I’ve had bad service with them,” Lowry said in an interview before the council meeting. “They don’t come on Tuesdays. I’d call the number on the box, but nobody calls you back. You have to call the city.”

The last couple of weeks, Lowry said, trash has been dumped on his block. He said the trash was not just his, but that of “a bunch of people on my street.” He said he received a letter from his homeowner’s association that complained about the debris.

Atkinson said the garbage trucks have cameras and can see where things went wrong. If debris is in the street, Atkinson said it can be determined whether the debris was there when the crew arrived or whether the crew somehow left it behind. He and Lowry sat together during the meeting and spoke about Lowry’s situation.

City Administrator Byron Hebert said the city continues to grow west and asked Atkinson whether he thought any changes would have to be made to accommodate the growth. Atkinson said the company has added another crew to its Wednesday and Saturday schedule and was flexible.

“I think our routing and schedule that we’ve got is still favorable,” Atkinson said.

The city entered into its contract with Texas Pride Disposal in September 2020. Texas Pride Disposal replaced Republic Services as the city’s waste services provider. Republic Services had held that contract for about 20 years.

In Katy, the city is experiencing Stage 1, or mild, drought conditions. The city is asking residents to help conserve water by taking the following actions:

- Voluntarily reduce watering/irrigation of landscape. Water between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m.

- Voluntarily reduce water usage in the home/business.

- Assess and repair any irrigation leaks, hose leaks, toilet leaks and any other potential leaks that may cause unexpected water loss.

- Reduce draining and refilling of swimming pools.

The National Weather Service said conditions will remain hot and dry, with a slight chance of thunderstorms on Friday and Saturday.

of State Foresters.

“Tree City USA communities benefit from the positive effects that an urban tree canopy has a year after year,” Wiesner said at Monday’s Katy City Council meeting at City Hall. “The trees being planted and cared for by the City of Katy ensure that generations to come will enjoy a better quality of life. Additionally, participation in this program helps cultivate a sense of stewardship and pride for the trees the community plants and cares for.”

Wiesner said planting trees in an urban space comes with many benefits.

“Urban tree plantings help reduce energy consumption by up to 25%, which will reduce general energy costs and help with the overall cooling of the city as well,” Wiesner said. “In addition, members of the community benefit from properly placed trees as they increase property values up to 20%. Trees also positively affect the local ecosystem by helping to clean water and create animal habitats to encourage biodiversity.”

In a statement, the foundation said that since 1972, almost 500 million Arbor Day Foundation trees have been planted in neighborhoods, communities, cities and forests around the world.

JUNE IS NATIONAL MEN'S HEALTH MONTH

MEN'S HEALTH: SYMPTOMS NOT TO IGNORE

"It's nothing."

That's the classic retort you hear when you suggest that the man in your life see a doctor for symptoms he's having.

But it could be something—something which could endanger his health and interfere with his quality of life. Minor complaints needn't worsen, especially since many of the latest treatments at Memorial Hermann can be minimally or even noninvasive.

So, here's how to get him to see a physician for some common health complaints.

FATIGUE, HEAVY SNORING

Symptoms: He gasps, chokes or even stops breathing while dozing.

Likely culprit: He may suffer from acid reflux, the upward surge of acid from the stomach via the esophagus (food pipe) to the throat, says Murtaza Arif, MD, gastroenterologist affiliated with Memorial Hermann Katy Hospital.

Heartburn may be gastroesophageal reflux disease (GERD), in which stomach acid erodes and damages the esophageal lining, and can lead to Barrett's esophagus, a condition which increases cancer risk, Dr. Arif says. "White men over 50—especially those who smoke or drink—are more vulnerable."

Treatment options: If he is under 50 and over-the-counter antacids don't correct the symptoms, he may be prescribed acid-suppressing drugs called Proton Pump Inhibitors (PPIs). He should avoid late night meals.

If those measures don't work, an upper endoscopy is performed which sends a narrow tube with a camera to the stomach and upper intestines to rule out ulcers or inflammation.

"The gastroenterologist can check for scarring, narrowing or tumors, and do biopsies of any abnormal tissue," Dr. Arif says.

If he is over 50, losing weight, having swallowing problems or is anemic, the physician may do an endoscopy before prescribing medication. To confirm GERD, the doctor can do another procedure, in which a tiny acid- or pH-measuring probe (Bravo capsule) is attached to the lower esophagus. It comes with a monitor, with buttons the patient presses when symptomatic. Bravo stays attached for 4 days, then passes through the digestive tract.

Reflux can be cut down by losing weight and stopping smoking and drinking. If not, he may need surgery to repair the valve (or sphincter) that serves as a flapping door between the esophagus and stomach. The operation, fundoplication, strengthens the flap by wrapping the top of the stomach around the lower esophagus.

FREQUENT BATHROOM BREAKS

Symptoms: He urinates urgently, slowly and with difficulty.

Likely culprit: An enlarged prostate (benign prostate hyperplasia) can constrict the bladder neck and restrict urine flow as it moves through the prostate, says Ramesh Krishnan, MD, urologist with Memorial Hermann Medical Group Katy. "Eventually the obstruction may lead to bladder dysfunction, inability to urinate and urinary tract infections. It also can progress to kidney (renal) failure," Dr. Krishnan says.

Treatment options: Medications can shrink the gland or relax the prostatic tissue, making it easier to urinate.

Urologists can perform minimally invasive procedures to ease the flow, Dr. Krishnan says. The UroLift procedure inserts tiny implants to separate prostate lobes, which lessens pressure on the urethra.

Some treatments must be performed in the hospital. Transurethral resection of the prostate (TURP) uses heated electrodes or a laser to take out the central part of the prostate. Surgeons also can cut through the abdomen to do a simple prostatectomy, in which they remove the interior tissue of super-sized glands.

INTIMACY PROBLEMS

Symptoms: Difficulty achieving or maintaining erections or decreased libido.

Likely culprit: Erectile dysfunction or low testosterone. Erectile dysfunction may be an early sign of cardiovascular disease. Other causes of erectile dysfunction include diabetes, obesity, stress, depression. Patients with low libido and erectile dysfunction may be low in testosterone.

Treatment options: "There are many effective and safe treatment options for men with erectile dysfunction" says Dr. Krishnan. First line treatment involves lifestyle changes, like diet and exercise. If that is not successful, there are several treatment such as medication and testosterone replacement. Urologists can even perform surgery in which a penile implant is placed which results in 90-95% satisfaction rating in patients and their partners.

LARGE WAISTLINE

Symptoms: He snores loudly, urinates often and has heartburn.

Likely culprit: Obesity. His organs are surrounded by visceral fat and crammed into his tummy—and that's bad news. "Obesity is a major killer because it's linked to diabetes, cancer, cardiovascular and other grave diseases," says Brad Snyder, MD, an assistant professor of surgery at McGovern Medical School and bariatric surgeon affiliated with Memorial Hermann Cypress Hospital. "Yet men don't address their weight till their pain and medical problems are unbearable."

Treatment options: According to Dr. Snyder, it's important to increase physical activity to keep the weight off and improve heart and lung health, but making changes to your diet is the key to losing weight. For eligible candidates, bariatric surgery can lead to faster and perpetual weight loss.

The minimally invasive surgery resolves not just obesity, but also many of the above issues. Yet only 1 percent of those eligible get the operation. "And of those, just one of five are men," Dr. Snyder says, "even though they need it as much as women do."

According to Dr. Snyder, gastric bypass creates a thumb-sized pouch from the top of the stomach and connects it to the small intestine. Gastric sleeve, also called sleeve gastrectomy, cuts down your stomach by 70 percent until it's the size of a banana "People can eat very little, yet they feel full," she says. "Once men lose the weight, their quality of life is so much better."

MAINTENANCE

Why it's needed: His body is more complex than his car, but just like it, he needs regular checkups and maintenance. Providing those visits is his primary care physician (PCP), says

Chioma Azolibe, MD, internal medicine physician with Memorial Hermann Medical Group Katy. "If he has any health issues, the PCP often is the first to recognize them. We prescribe or adjust medications and decide what treatments are right," she says.

Treatment options: He should have an annual physical at least yearly to measure his vital signs including blood pressure, height and weight, cholesterol, blood sugar and other key body metrics. His doctor may urge other tests or health screenings, based on his family or personal health history.

It's never too late to rev up for better health. Regular tune-ups will spare him from major mishaps down the road. "Screenings can discover a problem early and help stop it from worsening," Dr. Azolibe says.

Fort Bend chief deputy named Deputy of the Year

CONTRIBUTED REPORT

Fort Bend County Sheriff's Office Chief Deputy Mattie C. Provost has been named the 2022 Melvin Drum Chief Deputy of the Year by the Texas Chief Deputies Association (TCDA).

Chief Deputy Provost was recognized at the TCDA Banquet on June 9 at its annual conference hosted this year in San Marcos.

The annual Melvin Drum Chief Deputy of the Year Award is the TCDA's highest honor, named for Melvin Drum who was the chief deputy of Ochiltree County. Chief Drum was not only an outstanding chief deputy but also was extremely involved in his community. Chief Drum lost his life in the line of duty while conducting a traffic stop connected to a domestic disturbance on March 28, 1987.

Fort Bend County Sheriff Eric Fagan commended Chief Deputy Provost on her honor.

Since the start of her FBCSO career in January 2021 as chief deputy, Provost provides overall leadership and direction on all aspects of the Fort Bend County Sheriff's Office. She brings more than three decades of professionalism to the agency. Chief Provost earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Criminology and Corrections and Master of Science degree in Criminal Justice Management from Sam Houston State University. She began her career at the Houston Police Department, moving up the ranks to Assistant Chief. She retired from that department in March 2017.

Provost is a graduate of the Federal Bureau of Investigations National Academy, Session #241, the Senior Management Institute for Police and a graduate of Lead-

"Mattie Provost is a well-respected, exemplary leader who serves with excellence as chief deputy. It's no surprise to me that her peers would recognize her in this way. We are blessed to have her on our executive command team and our Fort Bend citizens are blessed even the more."

Fort Bend County sheriff's office cracking down on speeding drivers

The Fort Bend County Sheriff's Office is putting the brakes on speeding drivers to stem the growing number of fatalities in Fort Bend County.

To remind Fort Bend drivers that driving too fast can be dangerous, the sheriff's office is partnering with the Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) to enforce speed limits as part of "Operation Slowdown" June 7-21. The sheriff's patrol unit is stepping up enforcement on Fort Bend roadways to remind motorists to follow posted speed limits and drive safely.

In Texas, speeding causes one out of every three traffic deaths. In 2021, speed was the leading cause of over 163,000 traffic crashes, resulting in 1,500 fatalities according to TxDOT. That year saw a 16% increase in speed-related crashes on Texas roadways.

ERIC FAGAN
Fort Bend County Sheriff

This year, to date, the Fort Bend County Sheriff's Office reported 74 speed-related traffic collisions.

Fort Bend County Sheriff Eric Fagan says the public safety campaign is not about his deputies writing citations, but about reducing preventable crashes that can seriously injure drivers, passengers, and pedestrians. He says it is up to everyone to make the roads safer.

"Let's face it. Sometimes we all get in a hurry trying to reach our destination. But ask yourself—is it worth risking your life or someone else's life?" Fagan said. "It's just not worth the risk."

Here are a few safe driving tips:

- Watch for signs alerting you of reduced speed limits ahead.
- Adjust your speed to road conditions when there is bad weather or you're driving through a work zone.
- Slow down and allow for more distance to stop when traffic is heavy.
- Give yourself extra time to reach your destination.

Katy VFW Post 9182 to hold silent auction

Katy VFW Post 9182 is celebrating Independence Day with a silent auction and free luncheon on July 4 at the post, 6206 George Bush Dr. The live auction preview and silent auction begin at 10 a.m. The lunch begins at 11:45 a.m. and features hamburgers, hot dogs, potato salad, baked beans, chips, cookies, coffee, tea, sodas and water.

The live auction begins at 12:15 p.m. Mayor Dusty Thiele and Post Commander Terry Higginbotham will give speeches commemorating the occasion.

Midsummer Festival set for July 16

Midsummer Festival is a celebration of community through music, food and fun. This event's highlight is the main stage with three incredible bands, starting at 4 p.m.: the Bo Phillips Band, The Chee-Weez and Queen Nation.

The event will also feature food trucks, a carnival, BBQ cook-off, kids zone, vendors and fireworks to close the night.

The festival is from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. July 16 at 700 Westgreen Blvd. Tickets are $25 for general admission, $95 for VIP admission.

This family-friendly event is a joint fundraiser between Christ Clinic, Compassion Katy, and The Ballard House, nonprofits that aid the under-served in the Katy community.

Come for the entire day or stop by in the evening to catch Queen Nation and the fireworks show.

NBD Graphics holding nonprofit fundraiser as it celebrates 15 years in business NBD Graphics, 917 S. Mason Road, is hosting a nonprofit fundraiser as it celebrates its 15th anniversary.

The fundraiser/celebration is set for 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. June 30 at the NBD Graphics office and offers a free breakfast and a free lunch. The public is welcome to stop by during this time and help NBD Graphics raise money for Children like Loni, Friends of Sundown, Katy Responds, Special Pals, Sunshine Thru The Rain and Supply Bridge Ministries.

Attendees are urged to bring business cards and be prepared to network. For more information, call 281-574-8200.

Katy senior wins $3,000 scholarship

The VFW 9182 Auxiliary has awarded a $3,000 scholarship to Katy High School senior Naasson Crowell.

This scholarship is open to a son, daughter, grandson, or granddaughter of a veteran who has served honorably or a military member with active-duty status. In this way, the VFW 9182 Auxiliary hopes that high school seniors become more aware of the sacrifices our veterans and service members have made and give them the honor they deserve.

Local student achieves top ACT score

Abhinav Tiruveedhula, a rising senior at Tompkins High School, earned the highest possible ACT composite score of 36.

Fewer than half of one percent of students who take the ACT earn a top score. In the U.S. high school graduating class of 2021, only 4,055 out of 1.29 million students who took the ACT earned a top composite score of 36.

The ACT consists of tests in English, mathematics, reading and science, each scored on a scale of 1-36. A student's composite score is the average of the four test scores. The score for ACT's optional writing test is reported separately and is not included within the ACT composite score.

"Earning a top score on the ACT is a remarkable achievement," Janet Godwin, ACT CEO, said. "A student's exceptional score of 36 will provide any college or university with ample evidence of their readiness for the academic rigors that lie ahead."

The ACT is a curriculum-based achievement exam that measures what students have learned in school. Students who earn a 36 composite score have likely mastered all of the skills and knowledge they will need to succeed in first-year college courses in the core subject areas.

ACT scores are accepted by all major four-year colleges and universities across the U.S.

Rick Rice Park continues upgrade

CONTRIBUTED REPORT

Rick Rice Park continues to undergo an upgrade, which now includes designated areas for games such as hopscotch and leapfrog.

Interstate Municipal Utility District owns the park. Recently it purchased 4.2 acres of land from CrossPoint Community Church, 700 Westgreen Blvd. The new land will be known as The Commons at Rick Rice Park. It is behind the church and next to the main entrance into the park.

The park now includes about 13 acres with the added land. Planned upgrades include terraced concrete steps by the current lake, upgraded walking trails, and a new deck that will overlook a second pond with a fountain.

About 5,000 people visit the park every year, a board official said in February.

A spot in Rick Rice Park calls for calm.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test.

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Answers will be provided in next week's edition.

Project Barker continues to seek public investment

BY GEORGE SLAUGHTER
NEWS EDITOR

Wendy Duncan, Willow Fork drainage District Pres., speaks at an infrastructure summit hosted by the Katy Area Chamber of Commerce.

Project Barker, a $24 million drainage improvement and community park project for the Barker Reservoir, continues to seek public investment, an official said Thursday.

Willow Fork Drainage District President Wendy Duncan gave an overview and update on the project at an infrastructure summit held at the Embassy Suites, 16435 Katy Fwy. The Katy Area Chamber of Commerce hosted the event.

Duncan said the district oversees about 15 miles of drainage channels, 50 miles of storm sewer and outfalls, and 30 miles of off-street trails. The district oversees three parks. Central Green Park was completed in 2013. Exploration Park, was completed in 2015. Willow Fork Park was completed the predecessor to the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality, created the district in 1985. The district finances the acquisition and construction of drainage facilities, sewer facilities and related drainage projects.

Drainage has been an issue in the Katy area for decades before Hurricane Harvey's 2017 appearance. Duncan showed a map of Houston, circa 1940, with two projects that were to help with the floodwaters but were never built. One project was building a levee near Cypress Creek north of Katy. The other project was a diversion channel that would move floodwaters from north of Katy to Fort Bend County. These floodwaters would be moved south of Houston and empty into the Gulf of Mexico.

To solve flooding issues, Duncan said, two things were needed. One is conveyance, or moving the floodwaters downstream. An example of this, Duncan said, is a recent $390 million project to improve the Sims Bayou channel.

The other way to deal with flooding, Duncan said, is storage, which involves excavating reservoirs to enable more floodwater storage. This is where Project Barker can be useful.

Duncan said the goal for Project Barker was to increase the reservoir surface area to approximately 12,036 acres, with the ability to hold approximately 209,600 acres to cubic feet, or 210 Astrodomes, full of water when necessary.

The project would also increase park space and features, with additional trails to connect to the existing regional system, Duncan said. It would enable environmental enhancements and educational opportunities as well, she said.

The district would maintain the vegetation, natural plantings, sediment and silt removal, and park facilities, Duncan said.

Duncan said the district has committed $10 million to the project. It continues to seek other public investors for the remainder of the money.

Duncan said Project Barker has been envisioned as a "first domino," with successful implementation making it easier for similar flood mitigation projects to happen in the future.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers developed both the Barker and Addicks reservoirs to prevent downstream flooding of Buffalo Bayou, according to the Texas Water Development Board website. Barker Dam construction began in 1942, and ended in 1945. The dam is a rolled earth embankment that is 71,900 feet long and rises up to 36.5 feet above the streambed.

Brookshire, Washington County put together Juneteenth celebrations

CONTRIBUTED REPORTS

Brookshire will celebrate Juneteenth with its annual Juneteenth Festival Saturday. The festival is from 12-8 p.m. Saturday at Hovas Park, 1400 Hovas Lane, in Brookshire. Admission is free.

The festival features prizes, a Zydeco contest, basketball and volleyball tournaments, a mini-carnival, waterpark, children's activities and a fireworks show.

Food will also be available, with fried ribs and fried chicken wings. Presale plates are $10.

Meanwhile, in Washington County, the Washington County Historical Juneteenth Association has resumed Juneteenth observance with a series of family-friendly celebrations.

The association, a 501(c)3 organization, was founded in November 1982 with the vision of preserving African American history. It has worked to revitalize the Juneteenth celebration in the county.

Upcoming events are as follows:

- Juneteenth Jubilee Kick-Off featuring the Brown Sugar Band: 6 p.m. Friday at Fireman's Park.
- Juneteenth Opening Ceremony and Annual Parade: 9:30 a.m. Saturday in Downtown Brenham.
- Juneteenth Annual Jubilee: Following the parade in Fireman's Park.

Betty Wilson, association president, said the 2022 parade theme, "A Celebration of Diversity," is fitting for our times.

"Brenham is a unique place, and our history is extremely rich," Wilson said. "We feel this year's commemoration of Juneteenth is needed to lift spirits and fellowship after two years of isolation and separation. As we move forward, this event is an opportunity for everyone to learn and embrace cultures in ways that will allow the community-at-large share a sense of belonging towards society."

Throughout the year, the association examines the state of the community to ensure that current and future residents are adequately educated on the dynamic African American history of Brenham and Washington County. The association works to preserve local and add to what will become future history.

The 2022 parade grand marshal is the Rev. Randy Wells, executive director of Faith Mission and Help Center, Inc. Faith Mission is an ecumenical, Christian based non-profit organization created to be a central clearinghouse for assistance to the homeless and working poor in Washington County.

For more information, contact the association at wchja.brenham@gmail.com.

Juneteenth honors the day in 1865 in which U.S. Army General Gordon Granger announced the abolition of slavery in Texas. The proclamation, today marked with a historical marker in Galveston, came more than two years after President Abraham Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation.

Juneteenth became a Texas state holiday in 1980 and a federal holiday in 2021.

Hebert gives update on city road projects

BY GEORGE SLAUGHTER
NEWS EDITOR

The City of Katy is moving forward with $33.5 million in local road projects, funded by both bond money and cash from METRO.

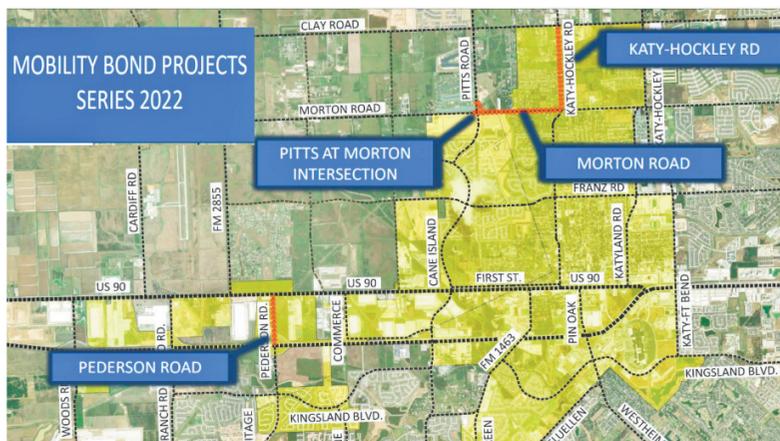

Katy City Administrator Byron Hebert gave an overview and update on the projects at an infrastructure summit held Thursday at the Embassy Suites, 16435 Katy Fwy. The Katy Area Chamber of Commerce hosted the event.

The Katy City Council in January approved issuance of approximately $26 million in road bonds for four projects intended to provide drainage, mobility and traffic improvement. The remaining $10.5 million is in cash and being used for other road projects.

Bond projects

Hebert said the bond money is for these projects:

- Morton Road will be widened from two to four lanes, from Katy Hockley Road to the end of the Katy city limits. The widening will include a new bridge crossing at the Cane Island Branch. Estimated cost is $7.7 million. Estimated completion is Summer 2024.
- Pitts Road will be realigned in Cane Island with the existing Pitts Road north of Morton Road. The work will include new concrete boulevard pavement, a traffic signal and a sewer system. Estimated cost is $2.3 million. Estimated completion is early Fall 2024.
- Katy Hockley Road will be widened from two to four lanes from Morton Road to Clay Road. The project will also include storm sewers. Estimated cost is $7.7 million.

This map shows the location of four bond-supported local road projects.

Estimated completion is Fall 2025.

- Pederson Road will be widened, with a new center turning land for truck traffic. The project will also include a storm sewer system running from I-10 to U.S. 90. Estimated cost is $4.2 million. Estimated completion is Summer 2024.

Cash projects

Hebert said the cash is for these projects:

- Katy Fort Bend Road will be extended into the Katy Boardwalk District. The project includes a decorative traffic signal and monument bridge. Estimated cost is $2.4 million. Estimated completion is Spring 2023.
- Prairie Parkway will be extended into the Katy Boardwalk District. Estimated cost is $1.9 million. Estimated completion is August.
- First Street will be widened from Bartlett Road to Avenue D. The project includes a new bridge crossing of the Cane Island Branch. The project is in design. Estimated cost is $2.7 million. Estimated completion is Summer 2023.

- Second phase of boulevard lanes at Pitts Road from Cane Island Parkway to Morton Road. Estimated cost is $1.7 million. The project is estimated to start in 2023.
- Second phase of boulevard lanes on Cane Island Parkway, from Franz Road to Swift Way. Estimated cost is $1.9 million. The project is expected to start in 2023.

Hebert said the city this spring unveiled a new webpage that enables the public to track the progress on the various road projects. The abbreviated URL for it is <https://bit.ly/3IWA9TI>.

Other road projects

Hebert said the city is working with the Texas Department of Transportation on other road projects, which include:

- Widening and adding sidewalks to a 6.7-mile section of FM 1463 from I-10 to FM 1093 in Fort Bend County.
- Adding a lane in either direction (totaling four lanes) to U.S. 90 between Katy and Brookshire. The improvements would include reconstruction and widening of bridges at Kellner, Brookshire, Willow Fork and Snake Creek. The improvements would also include installation of a closed stormwater system.
- Adding two managed lanes and two general-purpose lanes between FM 359 and US 90/Katy Mills Boulevard on I-10. This includes the extension of frontage roads from Pederson Road to US 90/Katy Mills Boulevard.

Bayou Bowl helps prepare players for collegiate ball

BY TYLER TYRE
SPORTS EDITOR

Every Katy ISD graduate who participated in Saturday's Bayou Bowl was focused on one thing, doing what was best for their college futures.

The players sang the praises of the bowl all week for not only its fun and competitive spirit, but for how it gave them a test of what to expect at the next level, as all four Katy ISD graduates who competed in the game are signed to play football in college.

"This is the kind of experience you need, it was different," said Mayde Creek graduate Jordan Kelly. "It was just way different than preparing for any high school games. I was away from my parents all week and I had a lot more freedom than I usually do. It just showed me what's expected of me at the next level and how you have to be ready."

Kelly, a Central Michigan signee, is getting prepared to make the jump to Division I. Cinco Ranch's Fordham Parks is preparing for FCS football with Central Michigan, Tompkins graduate Bryce Shaink is heading to Navarro Junior College and Morton Ranch graduate Ja'Kobe Hinton is taking the NAIA route, as he will attend Benedictine College in Kansas.

The bowl game and week of preparation provided all of them with a good learning experience.

"The whole week was crazy," Shaink said. "Every hour we had something new to do. We'd practice, then eat, then practice again and then go out and do something. It was a really fun experience and we went to a lot of fun places but also got a lot of work in to get ready. It really showed me what I need to be doing."

Each of the four has been working on improving their game before they get to the next level. Shaink has been working on getting stronger and making sure he can handle the rigors of college ball as well as upping his speed, Parks has also been working on his strength and putting on weight, Hinton has been putting work in in the weight room while also working on his agility and footwork while Kelly has been working to get even faster as well as on improving his hand

KATY ISD GRADS SHINE IN BAYOU BOWL

BY TYLER TYRE
SPORTS EDITOR

ROSENBERG — Saturday gave an opportunity for four Katy ISD graduates to put on for their team one last time and the quadruplet did not disappoint.

Fordham Parks, Bryce Shaink, Jordan Kelly and Ja'Kobe Hinton all strapped up their pads for one last time before they start their collegiate careers as the four played in the Bayou Bowl at Traylor Stadium in Rosenberg.

The four put on a show for the crowd, with Kelly making a big catch early in the game, Parks playing defense and special teams, Shaink making a number of plays defensively and Hinton holding his own against some of Houston's top defensive lineman.

"This was the greatest opportunity you could ever have to cap off your high school career," Kelly said. "Any kid that is coming out of high school, this is such a great opportunity for them and something I'll always be thankful for."

Parks was all over the field for the West team. He played in the slot on offense, making plays in the backing and being a key part in the West's defensive backfield.

"It was a really good game and I had a fun week meeting new people," Parks said. "It really just felt good to hit people again. It had been a while and I'm just glad I got the chance to do that again before I head to college."

Kelly, a Central Michigan signee, was huge in all areas for the West team despite a 24-20 loss.

Kelly was a threat deep in the game when he had the chance to go after the ball, hauling in a 46-yard reception in the first quarter and drawing a pass interference in

University of Houston will join Big 12 in 2023

BY TYLER TYRE
SPORTS EDITOR

The answer that University of Houston fans have been waiting for came Friday and it's news that will bring joy to all of the Cougars' fans faces.

Houston announced that it will start Big 12 play in 2023 after the school agreed to an exit fee with the American Athletic Conference, freeing itself to join the Big 12 early.

The Cougars will pay the AAC $18 million over a 14-year period as they join the conference. $10 million of that will be due by 2024 while the rest will be paid out over the remaining years.

"Today's announcement comes with tremendous optimism and excitement. This is the product of many years of vision, leadership and dedication. As we look forward to the opportunity ahead, we also thank the American Athletic Conference for the decade-long partnership," said Chris Pezman, Houston vice eye coordination.

"That's very important to me," Kelly said. "I just go around catching anything. Catching rocks, catching water bottles, tennis balls and even rugby balls since that requires a wider grip. Just working on all of those things."

All of them have already set goals for themselves for their freshman years as well, they are preparing for that next step. Kelly wants to put in as much work as he can when he gets to Central Michigan to lock down a starting spot, Parks is focused on learning from the veterans at Stephen F. Austin and chipping in wherever he can while trying to be a good locker room leader. Hinton is looking to be a force on the Benedictine offensive line while Shaink wants to make sure he puts together a solid year at Navarro so he can also move up to the Division I ranks.

"I just want to get on the field and I want to set the bar high for myself once I'm out there," Shaink said. "I think my big goal is to play six months and do enough to get out and move up even further wherever that lands me. But just go get on the field and play with my brothers is a blessing. I just want to make sure I'm having fun too."

president for athletics.

The Cougars won't be alone in their move to the Big 12, as Cincinnati, Central Florida and BYU also announced they will join the conference in 2023.

The early departure means that as of now, the big 12 will have a 14 team league in 2023-2025, as Texas and Oklahoma have said they will not leave the conference early for their move to the SEC.

"We look forward to finishing strong in The American next year before starting a new era of Houston Athletics in the Big 12. The competition will be fierce, but we are primed and ready to accept the challenge," said Renu Khator, University of Houston president. "I'm grateful to AAC Commissioner Mike Aresco and his staff for their professionalism during our discussions. And while I look back with great pride on all we've accomplished over the last decade, I'm eager to set the bar even higher."

All 17 sports programs will make the move for Houston and it will be the seventh conference overall for the school.

Houston began athletics competition as a member of the Lone Star Conference from 1946-47 to 1948-49 and played for the 1949-50 season in the Gulf Coast Conference. After one season as an independent, the Cougars played for nine seasons in the Missouri Valley Conference (1951-52 to 1959-60) before spending 16 years as an independent again (1960-61 to 1975-76).

From there, the Cougars joined the Southwest Conference where it competed from 1976-77 through the 1995-96 campaign. Houston played for 17 years in Conference USA (1996-97 to 2012-13) and has competed as a member of the American Athletic Conference since 2013-14.

The exit will mark the end of a decade-long partnership between the Cougars and the AAC.

"I am extremely excited for our players, fans, supporters and the UH community," said Houston baseball coach Todd Whitting. "Our entrance to the Big 12 is the culmination of years of hard work, the amazing support of our fans and donors and our tremendous leadership."

Houston will become a full member in the 2025-26 school year, and that will be when the school receives a full share of conference revenue, which will inject millions of dollars into the sports programs.

It brings to an end the tumultuous period for Houston after the breakup of the Southwest Conference in the 1990's. As they were left out of the Big 12.

"This is a new day," Pezman said. "It's about our future and where we're going and not where we've been. You tip the cap and remember what we've experienced in our history, and you'll always have a chip in your shoulder. But this is about today and tomorrow and where we're going."

the fourth quarter.

"The game was just one part of this week," Kelly said. "I feel like this entire week really helped prepare me for what I need to do in college as well. It really pushed me in the direction I need to go. I think that its important for anyone who makes this game to know to use everything you do smartly, so that when you get to college, you can get on that field and your already ready to go."

While none of the players on the West team wanted to lose, they realize that the event is bigger than the game and they all hope to take important lessons from it.

"It was like a little pre-game for college," Shaink said. "It was fun, just being able to get out there with the boys the whole week. It's something I'll remember for sure. You always wanted to win, but at the end of the day it's not about that. It's about the time you spend throughout this whole week. It was really fun."

And they are all glad that they got one final chance to rep Katy ISD.

"We worked all four years to get to this point, so playing in this all-star game, getting this chance, it was a great feeling," Hinton said. "It was awesome just to come out one last time and cap things off here in Houston before heading to college."

Katy ISD Provides Screenings for Students with Suspected Disabilities

The Katy Independent School District Special Education Department provides screenings for students with suspected disabilities in an effort to identify every student with a disability who lives within the district's boundaries. The screenings are designed to help identify children who may qualify for the district's special education programs.

Students with all categories of disabilities between the ages of three and 21 can be provided with services to ensure their successful participation in school. These services and supports may be provided through Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act or through the Individuals with Disabilities Education Improvement Act. Special Education services are also available to children who are visually and/or auditory impaired starting at birth.

If you are aware of a child who may be challenged with a disability, please contact the Katy ISO Special Education office at 281-396-2066. The Special Education office will coordinate efforts to evaluate the student and, if eligible, ensure that the student is provided with supports and services needed to benefit from instruction. Please do not hesitate to call should you have any questions or concerns.

Lewis inducted into USTFCCA Hall of Fame

BY TYLER TYRE
SPORTS EDITOR

Olympian and former Houston track and field phenom Carl Lewis was inducted into the inaugural class of the USTFCCA Collegiate Athlete Hall of Fame, on Monday evening in Eugene, Oregon.

ESPN's John Anderson hosted a two-hour event that celebrated 30 inducted athletes with a look back at their collegiate careers via video tributes, roundtable panel discussions, and special guest appearances.

Known as one of the greatest athletes in the world, Lewis was a six-time All-American and six-time national champion at Houston. He won nine individual conference championships during his two seasons. Lewis currently holds Houston's school records for the indoor 55-meter dash (6.07) and both indoor and outdoor long jump records at 8.56 meters (28-1) and 8.62 meters (28-3.5). He went on to win 10 Olympic medals, nine of those gold, and 10 world championship medals.

Lewis came to Houston to run for head coach Tom Tellez in 1979. As a freshman, he appeared on the national scene when he qualified for the United States team to compete at the 1980 Olympics in the long jump and 4x100-meter relay team. Because of the U.S. boycott of the Moscow Olympics, Lewis had to wait four years for his Olympic glory.

During his sophomore year at Houston in 1981, Lewis set an indoor world record and three other collegiate records. The indoor standard came in the long jump with a leap of 8.49 meters/27-10½, which he followed three weeks later at the NCAA Indoor Championships winning the 60-yard title.

He set collegiate records outdoors in the long jump (8.47 meters) and in 100 meters (10.00), then followed two weeks later with a collegiate-best of 8.62 meters (28-3.5).

In his final year in Houston, the Willingboro, New Jersey, native became the first athlete to win a track event and field event at the same NCAA Indoor Championships. He then repeated the feat at the NCAA Outdoor Championships the same year.

By the time the 1984 Olympics came around, Lewis had already ranked No. 1 in the world in both the 100 meters and long jump for three consecutive years. In Los Angeles, he matched Jesse Owens' 1936 feat with four gold medals in the same events -- the 100 meters, 200 meters, long jump and 4x100-meter relay. At the following 1988 Olympics, he continued his winning career, taking home gold medals in the 100 meters and long jump.

The year before the 1992 Olympics, Lewis broke the 100-meter world record with a time of 9.86 which he held until 1994. At the 1992 Olympics, he again won the long jump as well as the 4x100-meter relay, anchoring the U.S. team to a world record of 37.40. In 1996, in his final Olympics, Lewis won his fourth consecutive gold medal in the long jump.

At the conclusion of his competitive career, Lewis' achievements were, and still are, unprecedented in track and field. He is one of two athletes to win nine Olympic gold medals and one of two to win four golds in the same event. He also holds the record for winning 10 medals at the World Outdoor Championships, including eight golds.

Lewis was named Assistant Track and Field Coach at the University of Houston in 2014 and since has helped the program to 17 combined conference championships including guiding the Houston Men's Track and Field team to a third-place finisher at the NCAA Outdoor Championships in 2019.

Cougars garnered seven All-American Honors at NCAA Championships

STAFF REPORT

The Houston men's track and field team concluded its 2021-2022 season with seven All-American honors on Friday evening at the NCAA Track and Field Championships at Hayward Field.

A team of Jordan Booker, Dylan Brown, Edward Sumler IV and Shaun Maswanganyi clocked a season-best 38.64 in the men's 4x100-meter relay for a third-place finish. All four athletes earned First-Team All-American honors in the event.

Maswanganyi added two All-American honors with a sixth-place finish in the men's 200-meter with a 20.51 time as well as a ninth-place finish in the men's 100-meter with a 10.26.

Quivell Jordan-Bacot concluded his Houston career with another All-American honor finishing fifth with a 49.52 in the men's 400-meter hurdles.

Cougars hit high marks in turnaround year

STAFF REPORT

The University of Houston posted an 18-game turnaround en route to the American Baseball Championship game this season, matching the best year-to-year improvement in program history.

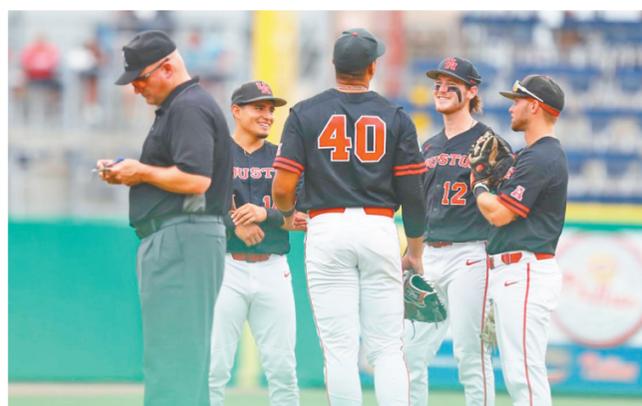

Houston, which finished third in the league standings, led The American in hits and finished second in batting average one season after ranking seventh in both categories last year. The Cougars finished second in saves and set a program record with a .984 fielding percentage.

"We have a high bar for success and are proud of what our student-athletes, coaches and staff accomplished to move Houston Baseball in the right direction this season," Vice President for Athletics Chris Pezman said. "We're excited about the future and are focused on competing for championships as we head into 2023."

The Cougars' run to The American Championship title game, the program's fifth in eight seasons, saws the club set a league record with 61 hits while establishing a program record with nine home runs. Four players were named to the all-tournament team.

With fans back in full force at Sanders Field at Schroeder Park for the first time since the beginning of the 2020 season, the Cougars did not disappoint, winning seven of eight home three-game series while racking up their most home victories (22) since 2018.

"As I mentioned in a few press conferences, this (2022 squad) was one of my favorite teams I have coached," Head Coach Todd Whiting said. "The grit, resiliency, and never quit attitude they displayed was a testament to the leadership we had on the team and in the clubhouse. I am excited about the trajectory of the program and look forward to winning our sixth American Athletic Conference Championship in 2023."

The 2022 season also featured the return of the Silver Glove Series against Rice and Don Sanders Cup against Sam Houston. The Cougars took 2 of 3 against the Owls, bringing the Silver Glove back to Cullen Blvd. for the first time since 2018. With a sweep against Sam Houston, the Cougars captured both trophy series for the first time in the same season.

Individually, redshirt sophomore Anthony Tulimero was named a semifinalist for the Buster Posey National Collegiate Catcher of the Year while redshirt junior Ian McMillan was recognized as a semifinalist for the Brooks Wallace Award, honoring the nation's top shortstop.

Tulimero led The American with 23 runners caught stealing and junior closer Ben Sears topped the conference with 12 saves. The duo was among five all-conference honorees, being joined by senior Ryan Hernandez, McMillan and junior Brandon Uhshe.

Houston closed its season with a 37-24 record, surpassing the 35-plus win mark for the seventh time in 10 seasons. The Cougars will open the 2023 season in mid-February with schedule and ticket information forthcoming.

Katy grad Small signs with Canadian Football League's Tiger-Cats

Anderson signs with Giants following successful mini-camp

BY TYLER TYRE
SPORTS EDITOR

Katy graduate Seth Small signed to the Canadian Football League's Hamilton Tiger-Cats late last month.

Small had initially attended mini-camp with the Indianapolis Colts, but after not getting signed for OTA's and training camp, the kicker took other options and ended up with the Tiger-Cats.

A 22-year-old, Small played 46 games for Texas A&M and converted 78% of his field goal attempts while becoming the Aggies all-time leader in points scored and career field goals.

Small will compete with Michael Domagala and Tadhg Leader for the starting spot on the Tiger-Cats this upcoming season.

Anderson signs with Giants

Katy graduate Ryder Anderson also garnered a deal, but his was from an NFL team, as he parlayed a successful rookie minicamp invite into a three-year deal worth $2.56 million, as he attempts to earn his place on the upcoming season's roster.

Anderson played at Ole Miss for four seasons before transferring to Indiana for his final year of college eligibility. He garnered 2.5 sacks, 7.5 tackles for loss and 47 tackles last season while earning All-Big Ten honors. Anderson, who is 6-foot-6

SOFTBALL

Texas falls to Oklahoma in WCWS Championship

BY ZACH SMITH
SPECIAL TO THE KATY TIMES

There were times this season when Texas softball coach Mike White didn't know what to do. The Longhorns gave up 15 runs to UCF early in the season. They allowed to 17 to Baylor in the penultimate game of the regular season. Yet somehow, Texas came together to make a magical run to the championship series at the Women's College World Series, which came to an end after a 10-5 loss to top-ranked Oklahoma Thursday night. "Oklahoma is supposed to win, they have all the studs and they're a destination," White said. "This here is a scrappy bunch of young women who stood up against Oklahoma and gave them a damn good game today and I couldn't be more proud." In her last game as a Texas player, four-time All-American and hits leader Janae Jefferson finished 1-for-3 at the plate on Thursday. She finished the NCAA Tournament with 17 hits and four RBIs. "The best part was our senior class," Jefferson said. "I felt like we were all strong. If our bond was strong, then it spread throughout the whole team. Ending my career here is the best feeling in the world."

OLIVIA RAMIREZ/TEXAS ATHLETICS

Texas softball dropped game two to No. 1 Oklahoma, 10-5, at the WCWS on Thursday to complete the 2022 season with the program's best-ever finish as the national runner-up.

Estelle Czech allowed six runs on nine hits with a pair of strikeouts in 4.2 innings in the circle for the Longhorns. Czech was one of three Texas players to be named to the All-Tournament team, joining outfielders Courtney Day and Bella Dayton. "It was an amazing journey," Czech said. "This season didn't start the best in Clearwater. No one expected us to be here. We had great leaders that had our backs all season. For next year, we want to pass on their legacy to new girls coming in." The Longhorns' made the championship round of the WCWS for the first time in school history while becoming the first unseeded team to do so. They were 6-1 in elimination games in the postseason, staving off elimination one in the regionals against No. 11 Washington, twice against No. 4 Arkansas in the super regionals, once against Arizona and twice against No. 6 Oklahoma State at the WCWS. "All the seniors can say they've left the jersey in a better place," White said. "We've set all sorts of new records and standards for our program. We're not at the standard of Oklahoma, but this program is rising, and that's what we want." Oklahoma's Jocelyn Alo was named the Most Outstanding Player after batting .666 with five home runs — tied for the WCWS record — and scoring a tournament-record 12 runs over the last seven days. Texas held off Oklahoma early on, jumping out to a 2-0 lead after Washington and Iakopo each hit a sac fly in the first inning and the Sooners were held scoreless through the first three innings. White called the Oklahoma offense an avalanche on Wednesday, and it started to roll in the fourth inning. The Sooners scored on an error in the fourth. Kinzie Hansen launched a three-run home run in the fifth, and Grace Lyons followed that up with a grand slam one-inning later to put the game basically out of reach. Mia Scott hit a three-run home run for Texas in the bottom of the seventh to close the gap, but it was too little, too late. "You know they're going to come back and make adjustments at the plate," White said. "They're tough, and that's what they do." Before White took over as head coach in 2019, the softball program was stuck in a bit of a rut, consistently making the NCAA Tournament but failing to advance past the opening round. Jefferson stayed, and Iakopo and outfielder Lauren Burke transferred to Texas, joining White from his successful run as head coach at Oregon. This year was the culmination of that journey. "I think it was all worth it," Iakopo said. "The hardships, the hate and all the love, meeting new people and being in a new place. In the end, we left it all out there and emptied our tanks to get to where we are. I'm proud."

Texas advances to College World Series for 38th time

BY ZACH SMITH
SPECIAL TO THE KATY TIMES

There was a time on Saturday afternoon when it looked like the Texas baseball season was about to end. By the time Monday morning rolled around, the Longhorns were Omaha bound. No. 9 Texas overcame a late five-run deficit to win beat No. 8 East Carolina 9-8 in Game 2, and beat the Pirates 11-1 in Game 3 after more than five hours in delays to win the Greenville Super Regional and advance to the College World Series. "We never gave in, and that's kind of been the theme of this team," Texas head coach David Pierce said. "I'm just very proud of how they stuck together through a couple of very tough weekends. They continued to believe in each other and competed well." Texas advances to the CWS for an NCAA-record 38th time and will face Notre Dame, which upset top-ranked Tennessee in the Knoxville Super regional in the first game on Friday. No. 9 Texas A&M and Oklahoma are the other two teams in the double-elimination bracket. Sixth-year senior pitcher Tristan Stevens was a workhorse for the Longhorns the entire weekend against East Carolina, pitching in all three games and starting and picking up the win in Game 3. "I didn't need a lot to get going tonight with what was at stake,"

SCOTT W. COLEMAN

Senior pitcher Tristan Stevens was a workhorse for the Longhorns the entire weekend against East Carolina, pitching in all three games and starting and picking up the win in Game 3. Stevens said. "This is exactly why I came back, to get to Omaha and win a championship. Getting the opportunity to do that tonight has made everything I ever worked for worth it." He allowed one run on five hits with five strikeouts and three walks, throwing 101 pitched across six innings and two weather delays. Stevens threw just nine pitches in Saturday's 9-8 win and had one strikeout in less than an inning in Game 1 on Friday. "With Tristan, we felt like he was fresh enough," Pierce said. "We felt like his maturity and his experience in this environment in Game 3 to send us to Omaha was the right choice. We stuck to what we've been doing, and he's been in that role a lot." Before any of the delays on Sunday, Ivan Melendez launched a three-run home run to give Texas an early lead. It was his 32nd homer of the season, breaking Kris Bryant's single-season BBCOR-era record. "I'm just trying to help the team win," Melendez said. "I feel like we just strung a few hits together. One through nine, we were tough out. I'm very proud of our guys." Skyler Messenger drove in a run to push the Longhorns' lead to 4-0. The game was delayed at 4:25 p.m. CT and did not resume until 9:15 p.m. CT. "This team is so built for anything that's thrown at us," Stevens said. "We were calm and relaxed and did what we needed to do and turned the switch back on when we needed to and go back out there and keep putting pressure on." East Carolina got a run back in the bottom of the first. Texas stayed hot in the second inning as the Longhorns score five runs, including a two-run double by Murphy Stehly after the Pirates decided to intentionally walk Melendez to load the bases. The Longhorns added some insurance later on when Trey Faltine launched his 15th home run of the season in the fifth inning, and Silas Ardoin added another run with his 12th homer of the year in the ninth. "The job's not done," Stevens said. "This is just a stepping stone. When we go to Omaha, we want to win it. That's our plan."

Hymel makes move to Mineral Wells

BY TYER TYRE
SPORTS EDITOR

Ty Hymel announced his move to Mineral Wells on Wednesday.

The 21-year-old race car driver, who was born and raised in Katy, made the move for the betterment of his racing career as he hopes to move up the ranks.

"Katy will always be home and I hope to make Katy proud in the future," Hymel said in his announcement. "I love y'all and thank you for the support."

Hymel scored his first racing win in 2021 and is looking to move up towards higher goals.

Hymel will continue to race throughout Texas in the hopes to move up different series.

"Goodbye for now Katy I'll see you soon," Hymel said. "And as always I promise to bring home a championship."

Ty Hymel stands in victory lane at Houston Motorsports Park after winning the NASCAR Advance Auto Parts Weekly Series race last year.
